Hi, everyone. Thanks for the emails. It was a pleasure working with you all. I will notify Lisa that I no longer represent you and that she can contact you directly, if necessary.

However, none of you have confirmed that I can send a check for the retainer balance to Erez to distribute how you decide. Could you each do that, please?

Thanks.

Hey Erez,

I think what you are saying is that the reduced group no longer wants me to represent them and that you would like me to refund the retainer balance that I have been holding. (BTW, have you been getting the direct-scanned monthly invoices showing that balance?) That is all cool, and I can write you a check for that.

To wind this up, I would appreciate a list from you of those remaining members and a one-sentence email from each of them saying that they no longer need my services and that I can send a check for the retainer balance to you.

There is one potential future issue, but we do not have to deal with that now. I continue to be the attorney of record on those roommate holdovers which are currently off-calendar and which will probably remain that way forever. Should they be reactivated, you would have to either re-retain me or retain another attorney to handle them. Those who have not done a buyout have a potential claim for his/her/their share of attorneys fees expended, but only if and when the cases are finally concluded after a trial and the tenants win. A trial would, of course, be a significant cost (which would also be recoverable, if the tenants are successful). I would just let sleeping dogs lie.

I enjoyed working with you and the others. Thanks, and stay well.

Hey Bob,

After having a few conversations with the remaining tenants who didn't take the buyout, the consensus is many of them would like to go back into negotiations with the building regarding their plans.

In light of this we'd like to withdraw our remaining credit.

I know I speak for the group and certainly myself in saying it's been a long but successful fight with you representing us and I'm thankful for your help during the process.

Hope you're well and healthy out there.

Hey Erez,

I think what you are saying is that the reduced group no longer wants me to represent them and that you would like me to refund the retainer balance that I have been holding. (BTW, have you been getting the direct-scanned monthly invoices showing that balance?) That is all cool, and I can write you a check for that.

To wind this up, I would appreciate a list from you of those remaining members and a one-sentence email from each of them saying that they no longer need my services and that I can send a check for the retainer balance to you.

There is one potential future issue, but we do not have to deal with that now. I continue to be the attorney of record on those roommate holdovers which are currently off-calendar and which will probably remain that way forever. Should they be reactivated, you would have to either re-retain me or retain another attorney to handle them. Those who have not done a buyout have a potential claim for his/her/their share of attorneys fees expended, but only if and when the cases are finally concluded after a trial and the tenants win. A trial would, of course, be a significant cost (which would also be recoverable, if the tenants are successful). I would just let sleeping dogs lie.

I enjoyed working with you and the others. Thanks, and stay well.

Hey Bob,

After having a few conversations with the remaining tenants who didn't take the buyout, the consensus is many of them would like to go back into negotiations with the building regarding their plans.

In light of this we'd like to withdraw our remaining credit.

I know I speak for the group and certainly myself in saying it's been a long but successful fight with you representing us and I'm thankful for your help during the process.

Hope you're well and healthy out there.

Subject: RE: Christian Gray, 226 Franklin St.

I am persistently hounding our expert. Please know that I am trying to honor our agreement. I will provide an update once I hear back.

Different issue but same unit(s) – G21 and G22:

My client called me a few minutes ago. He told me that an emergency exists with respect to the exterior wall. He was required to install a scaffold and sidewalk shed to protect the tenants/general public from falling bricks/debris. He is in the process of filing an application with the DOB to correct the façade. Once I have the application number I will provide. Basically, he needs to remove sections of the exterior wall in units G31 and G32. He will have to temporarily build a wall to protect the unit and building from the elements. In addition, this temporary wall will have to support the roof (G31 and G32 are on the second floor). This wall will be about 5 to 6 feet away from the rear wall (Franklin Street side).

In addition to building this temporary wall in G31 and G32, the owner must also install support beams inside units G21 and G22. This is to help support the wall above which is supporting the roof. My client told me he needs to install 2 to 3 supports in each unit. These supports will be 5 to 6 feet away from the rear wall. Because the owner needs to install these support beams inside the IMD units, it triggers the narrative statement process. Therefore, my client is in the process of preparing a narrative statement that will detail the specific work. Once I have that, I will forward. My client will comply with the notice provisions, but I wanted to reach out to you beforehand to let you know.

Will circle back re: mold report

I am writing again to remind you that this case is stalled because we are waiting for a mold report which then has to be shown to my expert in time for him to have an opinion on it by Sept. 18. I'd wager a large sum of money that my expert will not agree with yours, that the wall in question does not have to come down. So it seems a little silly to be waiting and waiting for this report, which I don't expect to actually achieve anything.

But that is what we agreed to do, so please see if you can get the report.

Please review this email most recently received from the owner's attorney regarding structural work required on the building above your 2 units.

I am checking in for you to have this info so you can review and think about it. I'd like your permission to also send this to the new architect, Alex Neratoff.

I can speak with you on the phone tomorrow or Thurs. afternoons; I will clear other time if that is not good for you.

Good morning,

Please see attached. Since this was issued, the owner hired an engineer who immediately inspected the conditions (7/30). A sidewalk shed was erected on 8/4/2020. An asbestos inspection was done on 9/1. The engineer is working on the narrative. I have expressed my urgency to get it done. I hope the attached is enough to demonstrate a real emergency exists and this must be done in an expeditious fashion.

I did speak briefly with the engineer. I know you mentioned that your client has a large press in his unit. I asked whether the engineer needed this moved and he said no, the temporary support beams can be installed around this press. As the only work in the unit is installing these support beams, we do not believe any harm/damage will come to the press.

I will be in touch shortly once I have the narrative statement.

Side note, I spoke to our mold expert. The report is almost finished. I hope to have that for you soon as well.

Neratoff is going to look tomorrow late afternoon. If you will soon have NS and or proof that the City is requiring this work, it would be wonderful if you can provide it before Neratoff gets there so he can see it in advance.

I will know tomorrow whether Neratoff wants me to hire an engineer, in which case it would be Donald Friedman of Old Buildings.

We remain eager to see if arrangements of mutual benefit to avoid a narrative conference can be made.

I am promised the report of the landlord's mold consultant later tonight. We are supposed to let the HP court know tomorrow if we want a trial date, but I expect to have to ask for an extension of time on that because I will need time to show Chris the report and more important, show it to Ed Olmsted. I agreed long ago to review their report and discuss with Ed. I think it 95% likely that assuming their report does not call for taking down the wall between your units, Ed will disagree with it and a trial will be required. I will send you the report as soon as I have it.

I was led to believe we would have the landlord's mold expert's report yesterday but it has not arrived yet. An issue has come up that I wanted to mention in case you think it should be pursued. I was told yesterday that the landlord has asked the expert to make changes in his report. I suppose the changes could be innocent (like a factual mistake needing to be corrected) but otherwise, why would the landlord be asking to change an expert's opinion? This, coupled with the delay involved in getting the report, makes me wonder whether the landlord and his lawyers are trying to get their mold expert to give an opinion that is not in fact his opinion.

Just getting it to you. See attached.

I just spoke with my client. To him, the difference of opinion lies with the overall scope of work. I guess that is obvious, but my client and his expert believe there is a step by step process. My client wants to remove/remediate the mold that is visible. Whereas, your expert is assuming that all of it is bad and that everything needs to be removed.

My client is offering the following (for settlement purposes only):

Step one: we will remove/remediate the mold that is currently visible. Once the first layer has been removed, we will be able to see what is behind.

From our expert's report, our expert even states that if additional impacted material is revealed during the remediation process, further remediation is probably necessary. Step two would be, if, after the first layer is removed, further impacted material is observed, my client will then remediate.

This process will continue until all mold has been remediated and a post remediation verification has been conducted by a NYS Certified Mold Assessor.

I alerted our clients that the report is coming. I very much doubt I will be able to reach a decision as to how we are going to proceed by tomorrow however, and probably have to ask the court for more time. Our mold expert has to look at your report and make his recommendations and I have no feeling that he will be able to do that tonight. I reminded you so often because I was concerned about getting that review. Olmsted is very busy. If your report calls for keeping the wall between the May and Gray units, and if our expert disagrees with that manner of proceeding, there will have to be a trial.

I am not blaming you for the delay. It's hard on our client as he has been out of possession for 11 months. However, I know you have tried to get this report and had difficulty with that.

The proposed work scope will not work because much of the mold in the apartment is hidden. For example

The mold is hidden under the raised bathroom floor

The mold is hidden in the wall cavity in the bathroom

The mold is hidden above the ceiling in the living room and two studios- The growth is above the sheetrock ceiling and on the wood deck above the ceiling

The mold is hidden under the kitchen flooring

There are more areas with hidden mold as outlined in my report.

The US EPA and AIHA have both published documents that specifically warn about hidden mold. The EPA does not suggest that hidden mold can be found by looking for and removing visible mold, which is only on the base of some walls. That proposed work scope by the building owner will not detect or abate much of the hidden mold. Removing one layer of sheetrock from the base of some walls will not expose mold in all of the areas listed above such as under floors, above the ceiling, inside the bathroom raised floor and wall cavity. The owner and his expert are merely trying to minimize the work done in order to reduce costs. This will only serve to miss most of the mold.

Just getting it to you. See attached.

I just spoke with my client. To him, the difference of opinion lies with the overall scope of work. I guess that is obvious, but my client and his expert believe there is a step by step process. My client wants to remove/remediate the mold that is visible. Whereas, your expert is assuming that all of it is bad and that everything needs to be removed.

My client is offering the following (for settlement purposes only):

Step one: we will remove/remediate the mold that is currently visible. Once the first layer has been removed, we will be able to see what is behind.

From our expert's report, our expert even states that if additional impacted material is revealed during the remediation process, further remediation is probably necessary. Step two would be, if, after the first layer is removed, further impacted material is observed, my client will then remediate.

This process will continue until all mold has been remediated and a post remediation verification has been conducted by a NYS Certified Mold Assessor.

I alerted our clients that the report is coming. I very much doubt I will be able to reach a decision as to how we are going to proceed by tomorrow however, and probably have to ask the court for more time. Our mold expert has to look at your report and make his recommendations and I have no feeling that he will be able to do that tonight. I reminded you so often because I was concerned about getting that review. Olmsted is very busy. If your report calls for keeping the wall between the May and Gray units, and if our expert disagrees with that manner of proceeding, there will have to be a trial.

I am not blaming you for the delay. It's hard on our client as he has been out of possession for 11 months. However, I know you have tried to get this report and had difficulty with that.

I have seen a draft of the Mold Report. It is being finalized and I will have that to you this evening.

I will need to speak with my client, and plan to do so in the morning. Once I have a better idea of his position, I will reach out to you to discuss next steps. I understand there is no appearance tomorrow, but If I remember correctly, we are to review the reports and notify the court how we would like to proceed.

Would it be unreasonable for me to say that I smell a rat that it takes so long to get the mold report. Perhaps the opinion you are asking for is not the mold guy's opinion.

I think he might want us to come up with a retainer agreement, but mine for use as a lawyer would be very different. If he advises you of his hourly rate and how much he wants to be paid now, Neratoff says he can fix up his retainer letter so it might do.

At the moment Alex suggested you look at his report and express your agreement or disagreement as well as any other comments or information we should have. We are going to have to hand in a report to the landlord and NYC Loft Board within about 5 days or so, and probably attend a meeting there sometime around Columbus Day.

Also, later Alex can send you further photos if you would like to see them.

Our clients are Chris Gray and David May, who are tenants in side by side units under the units where the primary work will take place. The Gray and May units are to have structural supports installed in them. Please let me know if you

Donald, meet Alex Neratoff, RA. 226 Franklin St., in Greenpoint, is the building I mentioned to you around Sept. 10. Alex and I represent tenants in 2 units that will be affected by structural work needed on the building. Alex has been to the building to look at this particular condition; above you will find his report and some selected photos. He has many more photos if you want them.

At the moment Alex suggested you look at his report and express your agreement or disagreement as well as any other comments or information we should have. We are going to have to hand in a report to the landlord and NYC Loft Board within about 5 days or so, and probably attend a meeting there sometime around Columbus Day.

Also, later Alex can send you further photos if you would like to see them.

Our clients are Chris Gray and David May, who are tenants in side by side units under the units where the primary work will take place. The Gray and May units are to have structural supports installed in them. Please let me know if you want to have them sign a retainer agreement and I will facilitate if you wish.

Hello Margaret

Shall I send this to the structural engineer directly? I also have 50 or more photographs that I can send him, so he can decide if he needs to visit or not. I will need his coordinates, not sure I have them - I likely do, in the context of the Roche project.

I assume you do not need the photographs, so I do not want to clog your email files. Just sending you a few.

What is the proposed date and time?

Have you communicated with the appropriate officials with DOB to advise them of the delays in scheduling

the narrative conference? We do not want DOB to issue fines nor to direct HPD (or DOB) to do the work, since my client is precluded from proceeding to do the work as a result of the refusal to issue a Letter of No Objection.

I suggest you direct Ms. Sandercock to provide a written explanation 5 days before the conference as to why the occupants refuse to provide access to install the columns on a temporary basis in order to comply with DOB directives.

Subject: RE: 226 Franklin Street - Emergency Work

Mr. Burden, the three of you will be able to participate virtually.

The Loft Board is strongly encouraging parties to attend narrative statement conferences virtually, but as Ms. Sandercock noted, we are not requiring virtual participation. All parties who wish to attend in person must wear a mask and social distance. A mixed in-person/virtual conference is possible, but because of DOB's social distancing requirements, at this time, we can only have up to five participants in the room for a mixed conference. We are working on securing space and equipment to accommodate more people for a mixed conference, but we do not have a system in place yet.

As of now, we can have Ms. Sandercock and her client attend in person and all others participate virtually. If either party has additional people who would like to attend in person, then please let us know ASAP

so that we can plan accordingly.

We would like to schedule a conference for October 20, 2020. Please let us know if this date will work for both parties. We prefer the 20th. However, we will also be available on October 26 and 27, if necessary.

We are not ready to do so at this time. Our architect has visited the premises and just gave me his report this morning. I believe we intend to show the premises to our own structural engineer also. We would like a narrative conference set with at least a little advance notice to permit the engineer to look at photos and go to the premises if he needs to.

I will be attending the conference in person. This may be a situation in which some participants want to be remote and some want to be present.

Dear NYC Loft Board,

On September 22, 2020, I filed a narrative statement (attached) that details work that the Department of Buildings has requested. This work involves an emergency façade repair. Please see the attached DOB Urgent

Notice. The work does impact four units, two of whom are represented by Ms. Sandercock, who I have cc'd here.

All corresponding materials, including proof of service, and the plans, have been filed.

I respectfully request that the Loft Board schedule a narrative statement conference immediately. This is an emergency and we cannot wait thirty days for a conference to be scheduled. We are open to an in-person conference. I can provide you with the emails from the two tenants who are not represented.

Please advise.

What is the proposed date and time?

Have you communicated with the appropriate officials with DOB to advise them of the delays in scheduling

the narrative conference? We do not want DOB to issue fines nor to direct HPD (or DOB) to do the work, since my client is precluded from proceeding to do the work as a result of the refusal to issue a Letter of No Objection.

I suggest you direct Ms. Sandercock to provide a written explanation 5 days before the conference as to

why the occupants refuse to provide access to install the columns on a temporary basis in order to comply with DOB directives.

Subject: RE: 226 Franklin Street - Emergency Work

Mr. Burden, the three of you will be able to participate virtually.

The Loft Board is strongly encouraging parties to attend narrative statement conferences virtually, but as Ms. Sandercock noted, we are not requiring virtual participation. All parties who wish to attend in person must wear a mask and social distance. A mixed in-person/virtual conference is possible, but because of DOB's social distancing requirements, at this time, we can only have up to five participants in the room for a mixed conference. We are working on securing space and equipment to accommodate more people for a mixed conference, but we do not have a system in place yet.

As of now, we can have Ms. Sandercock and her client attend in person and all others participate virtually. If either party has additional people who would like to attend in person, then please let us know ASAP

so that we can plan accordingly.

We would like to schedule a conference for October 20, 2020. Please let us know if this date will work for both parties. We prefer the 20th. However, we will also be available on October 26 and 27, if necessary.

We are not ready to do so at this time. Our architect has visited the premises and just gave me his report this morning. I believe we intend to show the premises to our own structural engineer also. We would like a narrative conference set with at least a little advance notice to permit the engineer to look at photos and go to the premises if he needs to.

Subject: 226 Franklin Street - Emergency Work

Dear NYC Loft Board,

On September 22, 2020, I filed a narrative statement (attached) that details work that the Department of Buildings has requested. This work involves an emergency façade repair. Please see the attached DOB Urgent

Notice. The work does impact four units, two of whom are represented by Ms. Sandercock, who I have cc'd here.

All corresponding materials, including proof of service, and the plans, have been filed.

I respectfully request that the Loft Board schedule a narrative statement conference immediately. This is an emergency and we cannot wait thirty days for a conference to be scheduled. We are open to an in-person conference. I can provide you with the emails from the two tenants who are not represented.

Please advise.

Hello Ms. Lee,

Thank you for your organization of today's LB conference for the emergency work at the façade of 226 Franklin St. in Brooklyn. With regards to the Alt1 Certification of the legalization plans and the questions that came up from the tenants,

I thought I would send you a timeline and the relevant documents to help catch you up on the history of this project.

July 11, 2017 - Narrative is served to tenants & Loft Board.

September 6, 2017 - LB conference - layouts are worked out with the tenants and it is agreed that the owner will issue a revised narrative to pick up the agreed upon changes.

August 2, 2018 - The final Narrative is served to tenants & Loft Board encapsulating all agreed upon layouts.

October 23, 2018 - The tenant's lawyer (Lisa Galludet), the LB (Michael Bobick) and the owner's lawyer (Petrucci) have a conference call to verify that the tenants consent to the layouts and that another conference is not needed.

It is agreed on this call that the LB will issue the clock. (see attached correspondence w. Mr. Bobick)

October 25, 2018: LB Issues 45 day clock. The notice is mailed out to all tenants by the LB. (clock notice & affidavit of mailing attached). As a reminder, in accordance with LB procedures, any tenant who wishes to file comments must do so during this 45 day period of time. Once the clock expires, their opportunity to file comments or alternate plans has expired as well.

December 9, 2018: 45 day clock expires (see attached corr. By Mr. Bobick affirming that tenants did not file any comments or plans).

January 8, 2019: LB issues Certification of the Alt1 plans. Certification attached for your records.

January 11, 2019: DOB approves the Alt1 plans

October 3, 2019 - Permit is issued on Alt1 320914347

I have attached some relevant correspondence with the Loft Board supporting the above sequence of events. Please understand that the owner spent months and months with the DOB, Loft Board and tenants to reach Alt1 approval. To undo this milestone and open the table for discussion on the approved layouts would unjustly delay the legalization of this building indefinitely.

Thank you,

Jessica Kashizadeh, R.A.

All,

Not a great time to schedule meetings. I will be away from 8/19/17 through 9/3/2017.

In that the building owners attorney will be seeking a "final" determination at this Conference, I am not comfortable representing the IMD tenants without legal representation.

We are actively seeking to overturn several recent arbitrary determinations and would be prejudiced by any Loft Board Certification prior to the exhaustion of these avenues.

Of those dates, I am only available on 6 September. After that, I am not available to attend until after 20 September, although I could be available by phone and any legal issues could be addressed after 20 September, as Mr. Bobick has suggested.. I cannot be available by phone on 5 September, as I will be in transit.

I am checking with the tenants as to their availability on 6 September.

Good afternoon Ms. Gallaudet,

Section 2-01(d)(2)(vii) states that within 30 calendar days after owner has filed a complete narrative statement, the Loft Board will notify the owner and all occupants that a conference has been scheduled. I understand this rule to mean that the Loft Board has to schedule a conference within 30 days of the filing of the NS, but not that the conference date has to be within that 30 day period.

With that said, I agree, I do not think the parties should be forced to wait until September 20th. Mr. Petrucci, I understand that you want to be in attendance in order to better advise your clients, but if the issues are architectural in nature,

Mr. Atlas can handle it. Any outstanding legal issues can wait for your return. If you know of a date and time in which you would be available to call in, please let me know.

I know August is very difficult to schedule due to scheduled vacations, so with that in mind, the proposed dates are August 21st, August 31st,

September 5th and 6th at 2pm. Please confirm whether you are available on any of these dates, after conferring with your client(s). If you are not available on the proposed dates, please let me know.

Subject: 226 Franklin Street - Narrative Conference

Hi Michael,

The final narrative statement conference on this building is needed to be scheduled. Pursuant to the loft board regulations, it should be scheduled within 30 days from the filing (7/28). The narrative was filed last week. Please let us know a date for the conference within 30 days from filing.

The parties have already tried to come up with some dates to provide for you. However, Mr. Petrucci has stated that he is unavailable through September 20th, nearly two months from the date of filing. The owner has been delayed repeatedly and cannot wait another two months. Pursuant to 29 RCNY section 2-01, the conference is to be scheduled within thirty days.

Accordingly, we ask that so long as the tenants' architect is present, that we select a time that Mr. Petrucci can call in via phone conference, or video conference to avoid further delay. There are very limited outstanding issues to discuss at this point as the parties have worked out the majority of the tenants' objections.

Please advise on possible dates available to the Loft Board.

We are certainly not taking on a supervisory inspection role in this. I was quoting his own plans where he indicated the owner/contractor will hire an inspecting engineer or architect. Up to them, but the only concern I continue to have is the accidental perforation of the waterproof membrane, which can happen regardless of precautions he lists. I will answer but this does not rise to the level of holding off signing. Will respond later today.

Dear Mr. Ogur

A quick response to the two points in your letter.

1. Regarding implementation of waterproofing, I was quoting the General Notes of your drawing that called for a supervisory engineer or architect to be retained by the contractor, to give the project as additional layer of protection. I cannot do that because I have no standing with the contractor, owner or the Building Department regarding this project: who would listen to me or follow my advice? And I would not want to intrude on any chain of liability or authority. Since you state you were not retained to undertake any site supervision, I was simply concerned that the work would have some level of responsible control. But that is not a matter the tenants can meaningfully contribute to.

2. The protection of the membrane I was referring to is to throw a simple sheet of protection over the plastic, so if a tool or brick drops, and then a bucket overturns or a sudden rainstorm catches everyone off-guard, that would not have any irreversible consequences. I note your statement that work will proceed from the outside, and that reduces risk, certainly – but when have masons or helpers followed rules rigidly? And in order to nail up the wood cleat and install the temporary roof every afternoon, and remove it every morning (a clever solution, I will add), one has to briefly walk on the plastic.

If you could address the #2 point, I will feel a lot better. One more item, I recall you were going to send us a more exact diagram of the temporary supports in the two units, so David May, in particular, could make sure the heavy printer would not have to be displaced. Did this happen directly with him, or will it?

Thank you

Yes. They re-sent the same plan so my concern about protecting the waterproof membrane at the 2nd floor finished floor level was not responded to. There is no worthwhile way to make them do it, it's really up to the contractor and the engineer does not want to be responsible for it. I think this should be signed and the work allowed to proceed. When the construction starts, it will be to your benefit to have a good rapport with the builder as if that is a friendly relationship, he will be far more protective of your life. Buy them coffee, help them with practical needs.

On a practical level, of course I assume there will be leaks, so I suggest you prepare by withdrawing everything of value east of the work area (beyond the columns) or wrap any immovable objects in plastic so they can withstand a direct water spill. And watch the proceedings, be ready with buckets, even at night when you are there. Sometimes a leak builds up and then lets go all of a sudden.

But we now need to focus our leverage and energy on correcting the legalization configuration, while they regroup and do the physical repair work, so in a couple of weeks, I will revisit those issues and will have questions, I am sure, about when various documents were received.

Keep me posted!

This can be viewed as a "NO" but actually, it is a positive offer of his time and involvement to make sure that David's printer will actually not get damaged, so please take up this offer, it might actually add a layer of protection, and certainly, not taking it up will weaken any claim for damages.

With regard to Item #1, you do not have to be part of my application or be authorized by my client to OBSERVE what is happening and report back to your clients. Of course this will require your clients to compensate you, but this is the price they must pay if they want insurance as you suggest. I have full confidence in my client's contractor being able to execute a waterproofing procedure. With regard to your "belt and suspenders" approach to waterproofing, I have full confidence that the contractors will not drop material or tools onto the waterproofing membrane, and therefore the material is perfectly adequate to provide waterproofing without an additional layer of plastic. With regard to David May (who I have no relationship with and is not my client), if he were to provide me with measurements of the size and location of whatever equipment in his space may be affected by either of the two wood posts, I will analyze what steps can be taken to avoid any adverse effects to his occupancy.

I write in response to your email of October 30, 2020 and on behalf of our client David May. Enclosed is a sketch of his loft, showing accurately the location and dimensions of a printing press that cannot be moved.

You were kind enough to suggest that if you knew what personal property might be affected by the installation of 2 new posts, you would see what if anything could be done to make the situation easier. I will look forward to your recommendations regarding the printing press and also as to whether other moveable property items should be moved.

Thank you for your help.

Thank you for the clear and concise drawing. I have marked the location of the two temporary wood posts in Unit G22 on the first floor. The post will be 2 inches clear of the printing press. Such locations are not carved in stone and can be moved a foot or two parallel to Franklin Street to accommodate the needs of the occupant.

Subject: 226 Franklin Street Invoice #1

Hello Christian and David

Before we embark on a legalization study, we would need the hours and expenses to date taken care of. Some of this work done and prints made would give us a head start towards the next phase of our work, if I would be asked to take that on. Please let me know if you want me to do that, and if you want me to keep track separately of the hours expenses of the new unit (G-12) that Margaret referred to me. And let me know who else I am representing besides the two of you, if anyone. So far, I only dealt with your two units as the ones affected by the structural work.

Thank you

Thanks. I will try to be fair in slitting up the further bill, normally, we do not do that: bills are usually sent to one person in each building's tenant association, otherwise we end up potentially caught between competing interests in a building. Some building-wide work review will be shared, so once I know the total number of units in the tenant association, shared work will he to be split according to those totals.

As to payments, they can also be made through the Zelle system used by Bank of America and other banks, tied to my email address - alexandr@neratoff.com. Thank you!

Subject: Costa's earlier plans needed

Dear All

I understand from reading the documents, particularly David May's very complete timeline and document file, that there were two conferences, one on 9/6/16 and the other one exactly a year later, on 9/6/17. Almost a year after the last conference, on 08/02/18, a revised plan was created that made substantial changes in the configuration that was referred to in the landlord's note to the tenants dated 08/23/18 acknowledging changes to the plans due to the "30 foot rule" as well as egress rules, and the failure to get approvals files for a CCD1s. The same note claimed that the plans were issued to, presumably, the tenants by email.

Two months after announcing substantial changes, the Loft Board issues a 45-day clock against the tenants. The tenants I do not think have any time to even understand what the changes were, and may have not even seen the changes.

But in order to demonstrate the substance of the changes, I need to see the 2017 and 2016 plans. Does anyone have them? I suspect that David May sent me a piece of one of those plans for G-22 in his earlier summary, but I need to see the other units and be sure of what I am looking at for G-22. I do not know if I can inflate the other issues to re-open all the units, but I strongly suspect G-22 might give us a good shot. But I need those two sets of plans! And 2017 far more importantly than 2016.

Thanks

Subject: RE: Costa's earlier plans needed

So:

What I succeeded in opening are A-100 and A-200 from 7/11/17; A-200 from 5/04/17 and A-100 and A-200 from 5/18/16. I could not find A-100 from 5/04/17 in any format that I could open; the A-200 from that date was a separate file with only one drawing. That would be a very important file for me to have as that was the basis for the 9/06/17 Loft Board conference. Please look among all of your files and try to locate that drawing.

The second item was the number and dates of conferences. David May's timeline indicated that there were two conferences, #1 on 9/06/16 and #2 on 9/06/17. There is no conference mentioned as having occurred in 2018 and 2019. Margret thought there was a conference in 2018. As this is a forensic investigation, and I do not have full files or knowledge, I need this confirmed. And that is why the 1st floor from the 5/04/17 is important, otherwise, I do not have continuity for both floors between the 2016 and 2017 conferences.

Please respond as soon as you can, this really has to move forward right away.

Alex, if this is not what you need, I can try to get a quick appointment at the LB to review plans but not sure how I can get copies, as best of my knowledge the LB does not have an oversized copier.

Dear All

I understand from reading the documents, particularly David May's very complete timeline and document file, that there were two conferences, one on 9/6/16 and the other one exactly a year later, on 9/6/17. Almost a year after the last conference, on 08/02/18, a revised plan was created that made substantial changes in the configuration that was referred to in the landlord's note to the tenants dated 08/23/18 acknowledging changes to the plans due to the "30 foot rule" as well as egress rules, and the failure to get approvals files for a CCD1s. The same note claimed that the plans were issued to, presumably, the tenants by email.

Two months after announcing substantial changes, the Loft Board issues a 45-day clock against the tenants. The tenants I do not think have any time to even understand what the changes were, and may have not even seen the changes.

But in order to demonstrate the substance of the changes, I need to see the 2017 and 2016 plans. Does anyone have them? I suspect that David May sent me a piece of one of those plans for G-22 in his earlier summary, but I need to see the other units and be sure of what I am looking at for G-22. I do not know if I can inflate the other issues to re-open all the units, but I strongly suspect G-22 might give us a good shot. But I need those two sets of plans! And 2017 far more importantly than 2016.

Thanks

Dear All

I understand from reading the documents, particularly David May's very complete timeline and document file, that there were two conferences, one on 9/6/16 and the other one exactly a year later, on 9/6/17. Almost a year after the last conference, on 08/02/18, a revised plan was created that made substantial changes in the configuration that was referred to in the landlord's note to the tenants dated 08/23/18 acknowledging changes to the plans due to the "30 foot rule" as well as egress rules, and the failure to get approvals files for a CCDs. The same note claimed that the plans were issued to, presumably, the tenants by email.

Two months after announcing substantial changes, the Loft Board issues a 45-day clock against the tenants. The tenants I do not think have any time to even understand what the changes were, and may have not even seen the changes.

But in order to demonstrate the substance of the changes, I need to see the 2017 and 2016 plans. Does anyone have them? I suspect that David May sent me a piece of one of those plans for G-22 in his earlier summary, but I need to see the other units and be sure of what I am looking at for G-22. I do not know if I can inflate the other issues to re-open all the units, but I strongly suspect G-22 might give us a good shot. But I need those two sets of plans! And 2017 far more importantly than 2016.

Thanks

Alex

Thanks. They may well be within the portions of the plans that Christian sent to me and that I could not open, I got about 50% to open but nothing labeled MACOSX would open, and folder 2 is where the single floor dated 5/04/17 was found along with one more copy of the 8/02/18 full set of plans that I have two or three copies of.

important file for me to have as that was the basis for the 9/06/17 Loft Board conference. Please look among all of your files and try to locate that drawing.

The second item was the number and dates of conferences. David May's timeline indicated that there were two conferences, #1 on 9/06/16 and #2 on 9/06/17. There is no conference mentioned as having occurred in 2018 and 2019. Margret thought there was a conference in 2018. As this is a forensic investigation, and I do not have full files or knowledge,

I need this confirmed. And that is why the 1st floor from the 5/04/17 is important, otherwise, I do not have continuity for both floors between the 2016 and 2017 conferences.

Please respond as soon as you can, this really has to move forward right away.

Thank you for confirming the Conference dates. If anyone knows about any other dates, please let me know, but I have seen no evidence of any other date. The 2018 date appears to have been just a service of significantly different plans for the G-22 unit, so we will try to get the process to be re-opened based on that unit, and then question other units' plans as well. No guarantees, the 45-day clock was announced and allowed to expire, so this is an uphill fight.

no conference in 2018 I have no emails related to this and there are hundreds of emails related to the two previous conferences, so I feel confident there was no conference. I have emails from 2017-2019 from a tenant who spoke to Petrucci etc, who said we had nothing to do but wait for landlord/costa to amend ns etc before next actions...

I THINK I HAVE FOUND THE FILES- I have attached files here. sorry, this is not my area, for years I left this stuff to atlas to look over, so apologies for simply throwing pdfs at you. i do believe i have found a100. attached-

I am sharing my response with David May as his exhaustive research of correspondence indicates Amy Lee's statement is substantially incorrect. The conference in question was triggered by discussions triggered by the 03/14/19 Narrative Statement and was supposed to deal with ALL issues involving the legalization. David produced a clear paper record leading to that conclusion. This will be reflected in my report that if all goes well, I will be sharing a draft of this evening.

Good Morning Ms. Sandercock,

I have reviewed the Loft Board's records, and it appears that the narrative statement conference, which was scheduled for March 24, 2020 and which was subsequently cancelled, was for Job Nos. 321785154, 340670465, and 340670456. It was not for the Alt. 1 application (Job No. 320914347).

Job No. 320914347 and related plans, dated August 2, 2018, have already received Loft Board approval.

According to the Loft Board's records, on September 6, 2017, a narrative statement conference was held for Job No. 320914347. Then, on September 17, 2018, the owner filed an amended narrative statement, dated August 2, 2018, for Job No. 320914347. Subsequently, on October 23, 2018, the Loft Board staff held a conference call with Robert Petrucci and Lisa Gallaudet, during which the parties agreed that the Loft Board staff could begin a 45-day clock.

On October 25, 2018, the Loft Board staff started the 45-day clock for Job No. 320914347. The tenants had until December 9, 2018 to submit comments or an alternate plan in response to the owner's legalization plans and narrative statement dated August 2, 2018. However, no comments or alternate plans were filed with the Loft Board during the 45-day period.

Ultimately, on January 8, 2019, the Loft Board staff issued a Loft Board certification for Job No. 320914347.

Regarding any additional concerns that the tenants may have had with respect to the Alt. 1 application, it appears that the owner was willing to hear them and address them as a PAA to the Alt. 1 application.

However, I do not know whether the parties had reached any agreement on that.

Dear Ms. Lee:

We recently attended an emergency narrative statement conference for the above building due to the need to install supports in two of our client's units due to structural work needed in the building. At that time, the tenants attending mentioned that they were expected a further narrative conference after the most recent conference, which was in Oct. 2018 but that there never was another conference. I believe you agreed to check the Loft Board's records such as the notes taken by the Loft Board representative Michael Bobick. I am writing to ask if you had the chance to check up on that, and what you found out.

Thank you for your assistance.

Please find attached above our architect's report on prior narrative statement activity for your building. I am copying Aaron Smulktis who has applied for coverage and is interested in changing his unit's configuration. Erez Horovitz did not participate as the plans for his unit are OK. There is another unit applying for coverage, Alex Post/Sophia Hanover, but their only complaint is that their mezzanines are not being retained for storage and they didn't think that participation was justified, only for that issue.

There is no clear, excellent, strong path forward. What emerges for me is that at the time of the conferences, the tenants were told "we are only filing this for now" and that the landlord would entertain requests for changes as "post approval amendments" ("PAA"). I would have thought two things would have happened, that don't seem to have happened: that Bob Petrucci would have written an agreement about changes in various units that were agreed to, but that did not happen; and that Arthur

Atlas would have remained in touch with units not satisfied with their configurations to get the configurations as acceptable as possible, which also did not happen.

It is true that the landlord amended the plans in 2018 after the last conference in 2017. However, tenants who objected to those plans had to object in writing to the Loft Board and prepare alternate plans within a 40 day period. As the Loft Board ran a 45 day clock, and as apparently no one filed anything in writing, it is not clear that the Loft Board has to help us.

Phil has an access application that I have to answer by Tuesday, which means I have to put the answer in Fed Ex by Monday. I need a sketch of the configuration Phil and his roommate want, which Alex knows I need, by Monday.

My plan is to let the Loft Board know that people were relying on the PAA to correct their configurations and this never happened. Also to go to the landlord with sketches of all units wanting changes and asking them to allow the changes or every unit that I represent will require an access hearing. In order to do this, I will need sketches of the desired configuration of all participating units.

I want to stress my belief that the fewer units asking for changes, the better it will go. Some of you have little choice, for instance Phil and his roommate will end up with no bedrooms when 2 bedrooms can be approved by changing the plans. BUT: If any of you feel you can live without the changes you have asked about, now is the time to say so and we will not ask that your unit be changed.

Alex has asked me whether he should prepare sketches that can be approved by DOB without problems, or sketches that will be approved by DOB but with greater difficulty. He has also asked me whether to provide for new or larger skylights in any instance. My belief on this is that the easier the plans will be to approve, the more likely our requests will be granted, and also I have heard from the Loft Board staff that installing new skylights is not really something they agree with (though it was required in a number of past cases, but some time ago.) However, all of you need to be satisfied with the plans for your units.

Aaron's unit has not really been analyzed. He is asking for major configuration changes. I am concerned that the landlord may try very hard not to cover him if we present such big "asks" at this time. Sometimes I can negotiate how a unit will be legalized at the time it gets covered, but it should be stressed that there is no guarantee on this and changes in this unit may only be possible if asked for now, which I don't really recommend.

I can make myself available for a conference call or a Zoom meeting if someone else sets it up. If you want to do this, I am open tomorrow afternoon or could arrange something Sunday, or next week for that matter. Phil, you need to speak to Neratoff about final decisions on your configuration immediately. Other units are slightly less urgent, but should be addressed by sometime next week.

All

Please review to make sure there are no errors here, as I am new to the building and had to find my way through the past five years and the 5 generations of plans. The timeline work was mostly based on David May's extensive research and document preparation, so I cannot lay any claim to that fine work.

There were also highlighted enlargements of each unit's plans showing the evolution of each unit from 2015 to 2018, that I will circulate separately so you have a full picture. Margaret already has them.

I will next take G-12 configuration out of sequence, as they have a pressing deadline. Then I will deal with David's, Christian's and Kathryn's configurations, and anyone else who might be covered and wishes to try their luck improving their units. I regret I was not there when you had real rights, it would have been much simpler ... I will be in touch individually with you next week to discuss individual goals and realistic expectations.

Best wishes to all of you for the success of this process!

Subject: Configurations of your units

We are trying to have sketches of your units this week so I can ask the landlord attorneys to grant the configurations you want. It has been suggested that you might want to give Alex a quick call by early in the week to discuss options and receive suggestions from him, so he knows what to have drawn up. He has a way to outsource some of the work but we are both concerned about the impending holiday season when the outsourcing folks may be less available.

Also, Alex perhaps unwittingly suggested a theory that could be used against the landlord: leaving people who have bedrooms, without bedrooms, is harassment. Harassment cases can be brought at the Loft Board but if the tenants win, the landlord is unlikely to buy them out in future because a landlord who has been found to have harassed is not eligible to deregulate the units. As a result, I don't usually recommend that tenants bring Loft Law harassment cases.

Subject: Configuration of your units

Neratoff asked me to remind you again that he needs to speak with each of you briefly about your unit configurations. He wants to have the plans drawn this week because of holiday considerations where he has plans drawn abroad, overnight. (Because of the time difference, he can send instructions in the evening our time and have drawings the next morning; this is also cost effective because the plans are drawn in Rumania where pricing is different than here.)

There are 3 reasons apart from the holidays to do this now. 1) I had an opening about 10 days ago to speak with the Loft Board about reopening the narrative and I have not been able to use that opening because

I don't have drawings and of course don't want something scheduled prematurely when we are not ready. Also, having drawings conveys: we know what we want and the process won't take forever.

2). As you probably know, the Hubbard/Lockhart unit got an access notice. We have the plans for that unit, prepared in quite a rush, and because of the need to discuss legalization with the landlord in connection with that unit, there may be a further opening to get a narrative conference. But I have to be ready.

3) We had to rush to get the Hubbard/Lockhart plans done and don't want to be in that kind of rush when advance planning makes it avoidable.

Please make time today to speak with Neratoff. Afternoons are usually best for him. You can email him and set a time or call his office at 212 431 0011 and leave word for him to call you if he is not there.

If you really can't reach him, I have his cell number but think it is better to avoid using it without his invitation to do so.

Subject: Fw: Narrative statement conference

Below is an email from Margaret regarding an upcoming Narrative Conference with the Loft Board. It will be remote. Let me know what dates work best. As Margaret pointed out, the dates over Passover will probably not work for Marty so that leaves April 13th. Can everybody commit to April 13th? Please let me know about the other dates as well, just in case that they are our only option.

I'm working on getting the LB to put in writing that the scope of the conference will include the PAA's. Please be ready and on the same page with Alex regarding your PAA, if you have one, so that we are ready to sign off on them if the LB decides to enforce them at that time. Hopefully this works in our favor!

Peace

Late yesterday, Mr. Clarke of the Loft Board emailed to ask us about scheduling a narrative statement conference for the 3 open jobs at your building. The dates suggested are March 30, 31 or Apr. 13. March 30 and 31 are complicated because it's Passover AND because I have things scheduled by other courts for part of each day. I suggest you publicize these possible dates, though nothing will be scheduled based only on our schedules.

I responded to the email indicating my availability and Alex has responded and also the owner's architect but not his lawyer. I expect Marty may object to the Passover dates.

I also responded that I would like to know the scope of the conference and that if they are not going to discuss the units needing PAA's, please make an administrative determination so it can be appealed.

Subject: Fw: Narrative statement conference

Below is an email from Margaret regarding an upcoming Narrative Conference with the Loft Board. It will be remote. Let me know what dates work best. As Margaret pointed out, the dates over Passover will probably not work for Marty so that leaves April 13th. Can everybody commit to April 13th? Please let me know about the other dates as well, just in case that they are our only option.

I'm working on getting the LB to put in writing that the scope of the conference will include the PAA's. Please be ready and on the same page with Alex regrading your PAA, if you have one, so that we are ready to sign off on them if the LB decides to enforce them at that time. Hopefully this works in our favor!

I responded to the email indicating my availability and Alex has responded and also the owner's architect but not his lawyer. I expect Marty may object to the Passover dates.

I also responded that I would like to know the scope of the conference and that if they are not going to discuss the units needing PAA's, please make an administrative determination so it can be appealed.

Please confirm all of the dates if you can. If not, please specify the dates that are definitely not an option. Ultimately, the Loft Board will determine the date but I hope that we are all available for the conference and I will specify to Margaret the specific dates that don't work for people. Thanks.

Below is an email from Margaret regarding an upcoming Narrative Conference with the Loft Board. It will be remote. Let me know what dates work best. As Margaret pointed out, the dates over Passover will probably not work for Marty so that leaves April 13th. Can everybody commit to April 13th? Please let me know about the other dates as well, just in case that they are our only option.

I'm working on getting the LB to put in writing that the scope of the conference will include the PAA's. Please be ready and on the same page with Alex regarding your PAA, if you have one, so that we are ready to sign off on them if the LB decides to enforce them at that time. Hopefully this works in our favor!

Subject: 226 Franklin street G22 LB Conference questions

Hello Margaret and Alexandr,

Chris tells me we have a LB conference scheduled for April and I see from the emails he shared that we are still waiting to hear back about the scope of the conference. I have a few questions about preparation for the conference and my unit.

The proposal Neratoff has drawn up for my unit (G22) is very similar to what I proposed at the 1st LB conference years ago. I was never explained by the landlord or my own representation at the time whether it was acceptable or why not, and plans for my unit were repeatedly changed by the landlord over the years without input from me or my representation. Each time I became aware of the changes to the unit (always after the fact) I was told by the landlord the changes were made to meet DOB rules. Your assessment this past fall of what transpired with my unit and others in the building implied the landlord (or someone else?) based the approved plans on an incorrect interpretation of DOB rules and created an unnecessary/inappropriate solution in the design of my unit, among other issues with process. If that is true at this upcoming LB conference-

-Are we saying that the process was flawed or DOB rules were misinterpreted and they need to review these new proposed plans?

-are we planning on challenging the misinterpreted or misapplied DOB rules they used?

-will we create a PAA that alters the current approved plan and incorporates our new proposal for the unit?

-how does the continued issue of mold/demolition of the shared wall with unit G21 affect our position?

-is more action required in unit g22 for mold mitigation given more than a year has passed without proper testing/inspection of the walls that were not removed at the time of the incident? I mentioned it over the summer, but both Chris and I were shocked that they only removed the sheetrock and insulation (3 feet) in my unit from walls OTHER than the shared wall that was primarily affected. I sent several emails to the landlord about my concern and they assured me that the mold mitigation people did not find mold. the men in my apt at the time made reference to some moisture meter etc and that I didn't need to make a big deal about it.

-This past summer the landlord requested access to begin legalization work in G22 without resolving G21 issues which directly affect G22 construction, will they try to move forward on G22 work again without acknowledging this?

-I have not received any communication or notice about the building facade and roof work since our last LB conference. what is happening there? I'm not trying to encourage construction- i am still in Nashville and I would have to make arrangements to accommodate them (I would rather wait). I am just curious what the status is considering how insistent they were at the conference and this past summer. At one point Chris mentioned that they had started work upstairs but paused and he was concerned they were dealing with asbestos removal. I was never notified of anything but if that's true I would like assurances that proper precautions are being taken.

Just to be clear- I have always been ok with no action from the landlord (aside from the leaky raw ceiling which I STILL do not understand how it is legal) and want to reiterate that I am in no rush for any work to take place, especially since the pandemic. Please let me know what you would like me to do in preparation for the conference, if there is any information you would like from me or updates/info you can share with me so that I can be better prepared please let me know!

Thank you!

Narrative Conference at 11am. The scope of the meeting will not include the PAA's. I'm going to forward you all another email explaining why. It says:

" The Loft Board is in the process of writing an administrative determination with respect to tenants' request to reopen the narrative statement process for the Alt-1 job. If the Loft Board determines the Alt-1 narrative statement process should be reopened, we will schedule a conference at that time.

Stephan Clarke

I hope that they open up another NC for our building and they announce it soon. I'll let you all know if and when I hear anything, maybe we'll hear it today at the conference.

Mr. Neratoff,

I am sending you the plans for the three jobs that are the topic of tomorrow's LB conference, Job numbers 321785154, 340670465 & 340670456 for your review in advance of tomorrow's conference.

In summary, the Hot water application calls to remove all hot water heaters from tenant spaces. As such, there should be no interference with tenant space by said hot water heaters since they will be located in a central location in the building. The Sprinkler plan is simply a modification plan and we are agreeable that any layout change on the Alt1 may require a revision of this application. Same for the standpipe application.

Mr. Neratoff,

I am sending you the plans for the three jobs that are the topic of tomorrow's LB conference, Job numbers 321785154, 340670465 & 340670456 for your review in advance of tomorrow's conference.

In summary, the Hot water application calls to remove all hot water heaters from tenant spaces. As such, there should be no interference with tenant space by said hot water heaters

since they will be located in a central location in the building. The Sprinkler plan is simply a modification plan and we are agreeable that any layout change on the Alt1 may require a revision of this application. Same for the standpipe application.

" The Loft Board is in the process of writing an administrative determination with respect to tenants' request to reopen the narrative statement process for the Alt-1 job. If the Loft Board determines the Alt-1 narrative statement process should be reopened, we will schedule a conference at that time.

Thank you for your work today. I know we are waiting for the loft board's decision to discuss our plans, but I appreciate your comments to the board about Marty wanting his tenants to leave. The evolution of the landlord's plans really illustrate efforts to remove the tenants- I know that several units who took Marty's buyout did so because he was able to remove their bedrooms from the approved plans. I look forward to any updates. Thanks again!

Mr. Neratoff is really good at this, I didn't even know what he was going to do but it turned out more fruitful than I thought.

Don't worry about not attending in person. I do think it can be effective to show up and I'm not sorry we showed up in person as the landlord lawyer and architect did, but there are limits on how many people they will allow so it is always best to check if there is still room if planning to attend in person. I immediately say that I will attend in person every time a conference is announced because that way I don't have to worry about the platform and whether I know how to work it. I can always cancel in person attendance if I change my mind.

Hi everyone,

Thanks for showing up at the loft board meeting. The first 30 minutes I only had video without sound and I didn't know if they had started or were waiting. Then my service went out as I was able to just get sound but wasn't able to comment.

I joined around the time when everyone was finishing talking about the sprinklers.

Heard Dave talk about the ceiling/roofs.

I would have commented (if I could have) that I have the same issue but for me, since I'm on the second floor, it's always just water (rain/snow) but I have insulation which has become very mildewy.

The LB seemed like we were supposed to let them know about those maintenance issues.

Do any of you how we do that, or when I contact Marty again about it, how I also let the LB know?

I have made Alex aware and sent him pictures, I was surprised he didn't bring it up during that.

Cool, do we have a zoom link?

Also- Stephan Clarke basically ignored my communications this past summer and told me that my concerns with the building were not related to the loft board and to contact a lawyer. He specifically told me the loft board is not an advocate for tenants. Hopefully they're sympathetic to our situation.

I hope that they open up another NC for our building and they announce it soon. I'll let you all know if and when I hear anything, maybe we'll hear it today at the conference.

Subject: 67 West Work Hours

Greetings Gentlemen,

Attached is the .xls Workbook, 67 West Work Hours. Please review.

Agreement:

When Erez and I were reviewing the Rhino model at my house before we started building, Erez proposed that I take 50% of the design fee, which was $5000 and that he would pay me for every hour that I put into the build at the full rate of $100 an hour. Erez proposed that I should take the hit on the remaining 50% of the design fee and I disagreed, stating that his proposal wasn't equitable but I would take the remainder of the balance in trade for time on the machines in the shop. I proposed taking 60% of the design fee, which is $3000 and the remaining balance of $2000 I would take in trade for time on the machines. Erez said that he would run it by Nick for confirmation. The three of us had a brief conversation about this at the shop, and Nick agreed that it was equitable that the remaining balance should be in trade on the machines and that it wasn't equitable that I take the hit. We never came up with an hourly rate on the machines because Erez said that he needed to look into what market rate was, and I agreed that I needed to do the same. We need to establish what that rate is now.

Workbook:

The Workbook has three breakdowns at the end. 1. 50% Cash / 50% Trade , 2. 55% Cash / 45% Trade, and 60% Cash / 40% Trade. I would proposed the 60% Cash / 40% Trade, and I would like you guys to agree to that. We should have had this firmly agreed upon before starting the build, and I should have taken payment for the cash percentage of the design fee before we started the build but we were moving fast and the build out began, and we dove in.

Considerations and Resolution:

I know that this project went over your initial budget but you got what you wanted and I hope that you are happy with the result. I gave you options to cut costs but you opted to keep to the design, which was the best choice, in my opinion, and the room should be doing it's job as a result. As you know, I billed by an 8 hour day even though most days were 12 hours. I would come back after dinner and workout issues, build, make necessary changes, and prepare for the next work day with you guys, so that things could move smoothly. I didn't up charge you on any of the materials and I passed along the savings, especially when it came to the laminated glass. I also waited to submit the hours so that you could recoup some capitol from the rent that you are bringing in from your tenants in the months since we completed the project. I hope that this has helped the hit of going over your initial budget.

I'd like to come and take some pics and hear how effective the room design/build is as well as pick up payment this weekend at some point. Let me know what works best for you. I'll take the payment in the form of a check made out to:

Jerzy Stankowski

Or you can pay me in cash. I know that it was more convenient for Erez to cut the check for the first payment so you can do the same for the second and final payment.

Thanks,

Christian

Thanks for putting all these hours together, it triggered a lot of conversation and backtracking to understand the value of the space and what we would charge for membership if we decide to open it up to others. So thanks for your patience in getting back to you on this.

Also, it goes without saying, we are very grateful for all the work you did to get us where we are now. The studio looks fantastic, it's completely soundproof, and we're excited for you to see it / take pics!

Erez and I propose the following:

- 1) We will pay you right now in check/cash for the balance owed in construction ($1922)
- 2) The remaining design cost of $5000 we are willing to provide in 100% trade, in any combination of the three following:

1. Workshop Access $150 / day of shop access

2. Our Time

$250 / hr

3. Video Production

Erez's day rate is $2k for video production/consulting (3 days)

Let us know what you think!

Best,

Nick + Erez

We already discussed the agreement. I already made a compromise by taking a percentage of the design fee in trade. Erez, proposed that I take a 50% cash/check payment and I proposed 60%. In going with Erez's proposal the numbers are as follows:

$4422.00 check or cash ($1922.00 + $2500)

We moved forward under this agreement. Please keep your word.

I need the check or cash for $4422.00 by the end of the week. I will take the remaining $2500 in trade. I think and feel that it is equitable to trade our time equally, at $100:$100, an hour, being that it is the rate that I charged you. I will primarily be using the trade for time on the machines.

Let me know when you can meet and when I can take some pics of the studio.

Thank you.

Christian

Erez and I propose the following:

- 1) We will pay you right now in check/cash for the balance owed in construction ($1922)
- 2) The remaining design cost of $5000 we are willing to provide in 100% trade, in any combination of the three following:

1. Workshop Access

$150 / day of shop access

$250 / hr

3. Video Production

Erez's day rate is $2k for video production/consulting (3 days)

Greetings Gentlemen,

Attached is the .xls Workbook, 67 West Work Hours. Please review.

Agreement:

When Erez and I were reviewing the Rhino model at my house before we started building, Erez proposed that I take 50% of the design fee, which was $5000 and that he would pay me for every hour that I put into the build at the full rate of $100 an hour. Erez proposed that I should take the hit on the remaining 50% of the design fee and I disagreed, stating that his proposal wasn't equitable but I would take the remainder of the balance in trade for time on the machines in the shop. I proposed taking 60% of the design fee, which is $3000 and the remaining balance of $2000 I would take in trade for time on the machines. Erez said that he would run it by Nick for confirmation. The three of us had a brief conversation about this at the shop, and Nick agreed that it was equitable that the remaining balance should be in trade on the machines and that it wasn't equitable that I take the hit. We never came up with an hourly rate on the machines because Erez said that he needed to look into what market rate was, and I agreed that I needed to do the same. We need to establish what that rate is now.

Workbook:

The Workbook has three breakdowns at the end. 1. 50% Cash / 50% Trade , 2. 55% Cash / 45% Trade, and 60% Cash / 40% Trade. I would proposed the 60% Cash / 40% Trade, and I would like you guys to agree to that. We should have had this firmly agreed upon before starting the build, and I should have taken payment for the cash percentage of the design fee before we started the build but we were moving fast and the build out began, and we dove in.

Considerations and Resolution:

I know that this project went over your initial budget but you got what you wanted and I hope that you are happy with the result. I gave you options to cut costs but you opted to keep to the design, which was the best choice, in my opinion, and the room should be doing it's job as a result. As you know, I billed by an 8 hour day even though most days were 12 hours. I would come back after dinner and workout issues, build, make necessary changes, and prepare for the next work day with you guys, so that things could move smoothly. I didn't up charge you on any of the materials and I passed along the savings, especially when it came to the laminated glass. I also waited to submit the hours so that you could recoup some capitol from the rent that you are bringing in from your tenants in the months since we completed the project. I hope that this has helped the hit of going over your initial budget.

I'd like to come and take some pics and hear how effective the room design/build is as well as pick up payment this weekend at some point. Let me know what works best for you. I'll take the payment in the form of a check made out to:

Jerzy Stankowski

Or you can pay me in cash. I know that it was more convenient for Erez to cut the check for the first payment so you can do the same for the second and final payment.

Thanks,

Christian

Hey Christian,

Based on our meeting in your apartment (way back before we started the build, but after you had finished the RHINO design and we realized we were already at our 10k budget without having started the build / bought any of the material...)

I asked if you would consider taking a design fee discount, you never agreed to that, but said you would consider it. This 50% proposal is a new but very much appreciated gesture.

That aside, what we did agree on back in mid October, was that any amount over what we had budgeted and agreed to pay based on the initial estimate (10K ALL IN) would be paid for in trade, I remember specifically agreeing to that. You mentioned wanting to be paid equitably (for every hour you put in) and that you were ok with a trade, as long as each hour was accounted for and you were treated equitably.

Past that I don't believe we discussed the arrangement further.

Again, we're really happy with the end result, and we want to make you whole for your work. But we also don't want to agree to new terms that were not discussed or proposed until now.

We're willing to pay you the 10k in cash (almost twice as much as we had budgeted to pay you for this project) and still cover the remaining hours in trade. That is what we had agreed to when we had that conversation in your apartment.

I regret not putting this in writing, but it was such an exhaustive / productive and healthy meeting, I felt like we were on the same page (after clearly not being on the same page during the estimation of the design portion of this project).

As far as matching your hourly rate of 100$, I'm fine to do a direct trade at 100$ an hour for machine shop time for you.

Which would work out to 50 Hours of workshop time for you.

Really want to get this settled this week as well!

Erez, you sat in my room and you asked me to take a 50% cut, I proposed 60%. You said you'd pay the 50% in cash and the after that you'd pay for every hour of construction work that was put, "even if I have to pay out of my own pocket". The only disagreement was that you thought that I should eat the other 50% and said we should trade it for time on the machines. I brought this up with Nick when we were all together, before we started the build, and Nick agreed that it would be equitable to trade shop time for the 50% compromise. We then moved forward. I told you that the build was going cost what it cost, that all of the materials would go to you guys at cost and that I would charge $100 per hour. Full transparency. You came up with the budget of $10k, based on an estimate made by someone who's solution would have not given you anything close to what you were looking for, and called for less than half of the materials and inadequate window solutions, and no interior acoustic treatment. I said that I'd try and come close to it but I didn't know what the cost would be and that we go through the pricing together, with full transparency and no markups on my part, and that we would build it. I gave you opportunities to remove features from the design to save money and you decided to stick with the design and only drop the small window to the right of the door. You guys got exactly what you wanted. I did say that I would trade in time on the machines to ease the burden of going over your initial budget, we never agreed to exactly what that was, and that's on all of us. Keeping that in mind, this is what I propose as an additional compromise to move forward in a harmonious relationship:

I'll do the trade for access to the shop for $150 a day, after hours, etc. like you proposed.

My proposal for an equitable time trade at $100:$100, was in regards to your proposal of your time being worth $250 an hour (150% more than my time), it was not about shop time rate. The trade in personal time would be for any preliminary training needed in order for me to operate the machines, on my time, during the days that I reserve the shop.

The fabric cost will be determined by the measurement of amount used and will be paid in cash.

Please agree to these terms.

Do we have an agreement?

Hey

Very much with you on never putting anything down on paper regarding the budget and plan for what to do if we went over. Also very much with you on figuring out a solution where we maintain a harmonious relationship.

Thank you for saying that!

I'm going to check in w Nick again today regarding your counter offer, but wanted to ask you what amount in cash you would take to walk away feeling good about it. Basically a full buyout of your to bring this project to a close today.

Thank you again for your magnanimous email, obviously friends and money can be contentious, and I appreciate your good faith negotiation throughout this process.

We moved forward under this agreement. Please keep your word.

I need the check or cash for $4422.00 by the end of the week. I will take the remaining $2500 in trade. I think and feel that it is equitable to trade our time equally, at $100:$100, an hour, being that it is the rate that I charged you. I will primarily be using the trade for time on the machines.

Let me know when you can meet and when I can take some pics of the studio.

Thank you.

Peace,

Also, it goes without saying, we are very grateful for all the work you did to get us where we are now. The studio looks fantastic, it's completely soundproof, and we're excited for you to see it / take pics!

Erez and I propose the following:

1) We will pay you right now in check/cash for the balance owed in construction ($1922)

2) The remaining design cost of $5000 we are willing to provide in 100% trade, in any combination of the three following:

1. Workshop Access

$150 / day of shop access

$250 / hr

3. Video Production

Erez's day rate is $2k for video production/consulting (3 days)

Let us know what you think!

Greetings Gentlemen,

Attached is the .xls Workbook, 67 West Work Hours. Please review.

Agreement:

When Erez and I were reviewing the Rhino model at my house before we started building, Erez proposed that I take 50% of the design fee, which was $5000 and that he would pay me for every hour that I put into the build at the full rate of $100 an hour. Erez proposed that I should take the hit on the remaining 50% of the design fee and I disagreed, stating that his proposal wasn't equitable but I would take the remainder of the balance in trade for time on the machines in the shop. I proposed taking 60% of the design fee, which is $3000 and the remaining balance of $2000 I would take in trade for time on the machines. Erez said that he would run it by Nick for confirmation. The three of us had a brief conversation about this at the shop, and Nick agreed that it was equitable that the remaining balance should be in trade on the machines and that it wasn't equitable that I take the hit. We never came up with an hourly rate on the machines because Erez said that he needed to look into what market rate was, and I agreed that I needed to do the same. We need to establish what that rate is now.

Workbook:

The Workbook has three breakdowns at the end. 1. 50% Cash / 50% Trade , 2. 55% Cash / 45% Trade, and 60% Cash / 40% Trade. I would proposed the 60% Cash / 40% Trade, and I would like you guys to agree to that. We should have had this firmly agreed upon before starting the build, and I should have taken payment for the cash percentage of the design fee before we started the build but we were moving fast and the build out began, and we dove in.

Considerations and Resolution:

I know that this project went over your initial budget but you got what you wanted and I hope that you are happy with the result. I gave you options to cut costs but you opted to keep to the design, which was the best choice, in my opinion, and the room should be doing it's job as a result. As you know, I billed by an 8 hour day even though most days were 12 hours. I would come back after dinner and workout issues, build, make necessary changes, and prepare for the next work day with you guys, so that things could move smoothly. I didn't up charge you on any of the materials and I passed along the savings, especially when it came to the laminated glass. I also waited to submit the hours so that you could recoup some capitol from the rent that you are bringing in from your tenants in the months since we completed the project. I hope that this has helped the hit of going over your initial budget.

I'd like to come and take some pics and hear how effective the room design/build is as well as pick up payment this weekend at some point. Let me know what works best for you. I'll take the payment in the form of a check made out to:

Jerzy Stankowski

Or you can pay me in cash. I know that it was more convenient for Erez to cut the check for the first payment so you can do the same for the second and final payment.

Thanks,

Christian

Thank you for saying that!

I'm going to check in w Nick again today regarding your counter offer, but wanted to ask you what amount in cash you would take to walk away feeling good about it. Basically a full buyout of your to bring this project to a close today.

Thank you again for your magnanimous email, obviously friends and money can be contentious, and I appreciate your good faith negotiation throughout this process.

Erez, you sat in my room and you asked me to take a 50% cut, I proposed 60%. You said you'd pay the 50% in cash and the after that you'd pay for every hour of construction work that was put, "even if I have to pay out of my own pocket". The only disagreement was that you thought that I should eat the other 50% and said we should trade it for time on the machines. I brought this up with Nick when we were all together, before we started the build, and Nick agreed that it would be equitable to trade shop time for the 50% compromise. We then moved forward. I told you that the build was going cost what it cost, that all of the materials would go to you guys at cost and that I would charge $100 per hour. Full transparency. You came up with the budget of $10k, based on an estimate made by someone who's solution would have not given you anything close to what you were looking for, and called for less than half of the materials and inadequate window solutions, and no interior acoustic treatment. I said that I'd try and come close to it but I didn't know what the cost would be and that we go through the pricing together, with full transparency and no markups on my part, and that we would build it. I gave you opportunities to remove features from the design to save money and you decided to stick with the design and only drop the small window to the right of the door. You guys got exactly what you wanted. I did say that I would trade in time on the machines to ease the burden of going over your initial budget, we never agreed to exactly what that was, and that's on all of us. Keeping that in mind, this is what I propose as an additional compromise to move forward in a harmonious relationship:

I'll do the trade for access to the shop for $150 a day, after hours, etc. like you proposed.

My proposal for an equitable time trade at $100:$100, was in regards to your proposal of your time being worth $250 an hour (150% more than my time), it was not about shop time rate. The trade in personal time would be for any preliminary training needed in order for me to operate the machines, on my time, during the days that I reserve the shop.

The fabric cost will be determined by the measurement of amount used and will be paid in cash.

Please agree to these terms.

Do we have an agreement?

Hey Christian,

Based on our meeting in your apartment (way back before we started the build, but after you had finished the RHINO design and we realized we were already at our 10k budget without having started the build / bought any of the material...)

I asked if you would consider taking a design fee discount, you never agreed to that, but said you would consider it. This 50% proposal is a new but very much appreciated gesture.

That aside, what we did agree on back in mid October, was that any amount over what we had budgeted and agreed to pay based on the initial estimate (10K ALL IN) would be paid for in trade, I remember specifically agreeing to that. You mentioned wanting to be paid equitably (for every hour you put in) and that you were ok with a trade, as long as each hour was accounted for and you were treated equitably.

Past that I don't believe we discussed the arrangement further.

Again, we're really happy with the end result, and we want to make you whole for your work. But we also don't want to agree to new terms that were not discussed or proposed until now.

We're willing to pay you the 10k in cash (almost twice as much as we had budgeted to pay you for this project) and still cover the remaining hours in trade. That is what we had agreed to when we had that conversation in your apartment.

I regret not putting this in writing, but it was such an exhaustive / productive and healthy meeting, I felt like we were on the same page (after clearly not being on the same

As far as matching your hourly rate of 100$, I'm fine to do a direct trade at 100$ an hour for machine shop time for you.

Which would work out to 50 Hours of workshop time for you.

Really want to get this settled this week as well!

I am pleased to hear that your client has agreed to the scope of work previously agreed to by our experts. We agree to have our expert perform the testing after the remediation work is completed and provide you and your client with the report. Your expert will then have the opportunity to do his own testing within an agreed upon time after receiving the report from our expert. We previously offered to permit both experts to be present while the work is being performed. Please let me know if you want to include this as part of our agreement.

As to the emergency work, my client would prefer to perform the remediation work 1st but if your client is insistent on the emergency work being performed in his apartment 1st, then we will agree as long as it is agreed that the remediation work follows emergency work involved in his apartment which should take 3 days. The remediation work will not wait until the emergency work is completed in the entire building.

Without prejudice and for settlement purposes only, we have prevailed on Mr. Gray to accept the existing scope of work provided that the owner will conduct its post testing first and give us the results before we have to start our post testing. If the scope of work is not sufficient as Mr. Gray believes, this will protect us from some of the expense of repeated tests because we will perhaps be able to use your test reports to show that the scope of work was not sufficient.

Today I heard from Joe Burden about scheduling "emergency" shoring work needed in Mr. Gray's unit and also the unit of his neighbor, David May, during the week of June 15. Mr. Gray is inclined to consent to that date and I have asked Mr. May to notify me if he can also consent. If they both consent, that work should be done before the mold remediation because it's an emergency. We would then need to find a date after the shoring to start the mold remediation.

If this is agreeable to you, I would love to see if we can speak to the court before Friday afternoon as I have a trial Friday and I am not sure it will be over by 2 30.

This is acceptable BUT we do want our expert present and if the remediation has to wait till he can be present, that must be the case. He is very busy and the sooner you tell me what day(s) you want for remediation, the more likely he will be available on the days you prefer.

Margaret

I am pleased to hear that your client has agreed to the scope of work previously agreed to by our experts. We agree to have our expert perform the testing after the remediation work is completed and provide

you and your client with the report. Your expert will then have the opportunity to do his own testing within an agreed upon time after receiving the report from our expert. We previously offered to permit both experts to be present while the work is being performed. Please let me know if you want to include this as part of our agreement.

As to the emergency work, my client would prefer to perform the remediation work 1st but if your client is insistent on the emergency work being performed in his apartment 1st,

will agree as long as it is agreed that the remediation work follows emergency work involved in his apartment which should take 3 days. The remediation work will not wait until the emergency work is completed in the entire building.

Please let me know if this is acceptable and I can begin to draft a stipulation of settlement.

THIS IS FOR SETTLEMENT PURPOSES ONLY

Without prejudice and for settlement purposes only, we have prevailed on Mr. Gray to accept the existing scope of work provided that the owner will conduct its post testing first and give us the results before we have to start our post testing. If the scope of work is not sufficient as Mr. Gray believes, this will protect us from some of the expense of repeated tests because we will perhaps be able to use your test reports to show that the scope of work was not sufficient.

Today I heard from Joe Burden about scheduling "emergency" shoring work needed in Mr. Gray's unit and also the unit of his neighbor, David May, during the week of June 15. Mr. Gray is inclined to consent to that date and I have asked Mr. May to notify me if he can also consent. If they both consent, that work should be done before the mold remediation because it's an emergency. We would then need to find a date after the shoring to start the mold remediation.

If this is agreeable to you, I would love to see if we can speak to the court before Friday afternoon as I have a trial Friday and I am not sure it will be over by 2 30.

I'm not going to feel that good if you're asking me to have worked for free when we had an agreed upon rate. Would you? You've had many months to recoup on going over your initial budget. I proposed the trade to help with situation. I would much rather take cash, so what do you think the discount should be? I don't want to back and forth with this any longer as it has taken up way too much time already and I need to get paid ASAP.

What do you propose?

Erez, you sat in my room and you asked me to take a 50% cut, I proposed 60%. You said you'd pay the 50% in cash and the after that you'd pay for every hour of construction work that was put, "even if I have to pay out of my own pocket". The only disagreement was that you thought that I should eat the other 50% and said we should trade it for time on the machines. I brought this up with Nick when we were all together, before we started the build, and Nick agreed that it would be equitable to trade shop time for the 50% compromise. We then moved forward. I told you that the build was going cost what it cost, that all of the materials would go to you guys at cost and that I would charge $100 per hour. Full transparency. You came up with the budget of $10k, based on an estimate made by someone who's solution would have not given you anything close to what you were looking for, and called for less than half of the materials and inadequate window solutions, and no interior acoustic treatment. I said that I'd try and come close to it but I didn't know what the cost would be and that we go through the pricing together, with full transparency and no markups on my part, and that we would build it. I gave you opportunities to remove features from the design to save money and you decided to stick with the design and only drop the small window to the right of the door. You guys got exactly what you wanted. I did say that I would trade in time on the machines to ease the burden of going over your initial budget, we never agreed to exactly what that was, and that's on all of us. Keeping that in mind, this is what I propose as an additional compromise to move forward in a harmonious relationship:

I'll do the trade for access to the shop for $150 a day, after hours, etc. like you proposed.

My proposal for an equitable time trade at $100:$100, was in regards to your proposal of your time being worth $250 an hour (150% more than my time), it was not about shop time rate. The trade in personal time would be for any preliminary training needed in order for me to operate the machines, on my time, during the days that I reserve the shop.

The fabric cost will be determined by the measurement of amount used and will be paid in cash.

Please agree to these terms.

Do we have an agreement?

Hey Christian,

Based on our meeting in your apartment (way back before we started the build, but after you had finished the RHINO design and we realized we were already at our 10k budget without having started the build / bought any of the material...)

I asked if you would consider taking a design fee discount, you never agreed to that, but said you would consider it. This 50% proposal is a new but very much appreciated gesture.

That aside, what we did agree on back in mid October, was that any amount over what we had budgeted and agreed to pay based on the initial estimate (10K ALL IN) would be paid for in trade, I remember specifically agreeing to that. You mentioned wanting to be paid equitably (for every hour you put in) and that you were ok with a trade, as long as each hour was accounted for and you were treated equitably.

Past that I don't believe we discussed the arrangement further.

Again, we're really happy with the end result, and we want to make you whole for your work. But we also don't want to agree to new terms that were not discussed or proposed until now.

We're willing to pay you the 10k in cash (almost twice as much as we had budgeted to pay you for this project) and still cover the remaining hours in trade. That is what we had agreed to when we had that conversation in your apartment.

I regret not putting this in writing, but it was such an exhaustive / productive and healthy meeting, I felt like we were on the same page (after clearly not being on the same page during the estimation of the design portion of this project).

As far as matching your hourly rate of 100$, I'm fine to do a direct trade at 100$ an hour for machine shop time for you.

Which would work out to 50 Hours of workshop time for you.

Really want to get this settled this week as well!

Erez

On Wed, May 5, 2021 at 2:13 PM Christian Gray <christiangray3@protonmail.com> wrote:

We already discussed the agreement. I already made a compromise by taking a percentage of the design fee in trade. Erez, proposed that I take a 50% cash/check payment and I proposed 60%. In going with Erez's proposal the numbers are as follows:

We moved forward under this agreement. Please keep your word.

I need the check or cash for $4422.00 by the end of the week. I will take the remaining $2500 in trade. I think and feel that it is equitable to trade our time equally, at $100:$100, an hour, being that it is the rate that I charged you. I will primarily be using the trade for time on the machines.

Let me know when you can meet and when I can take some pics of the studio.

Thank you.

Also, it goes without saying, we are very grateful for all the work you did to get us where we are now. The studio looks fantastic, it's completely soundproof, and we're excited for you to see it / take pics!

Erez and I propose the following:

1) We will pay you right now in check/cash for the balance owed in construction ($1922)

2) The remaining design cost of $5000 we are willing to provide in 100% trade, in any combination of the three following:

1. Workshop Access

$150 / day of shop access

$250 / hr

3. Video Production

Erez's day rate is $2k for video production/consulting (3 days)

Let us know what you think!

Greetings Gentlemen,

Attached is the .xls Workbook, 67 West Work Hours. Please review.

Agreement:

When Erez and I were reviewing the Rhino model at my house before we started building, Erez proposed that I take 50% of the design fee, which was $5000 and that he would pay me for every hour that I put into the build at the full rate of $100 an hour. Erez proposed that I should take the hit on the remaining 50% of the design fee and I disagreed, stating that his proposal wasn't equitable but I would take the remainder of the balance in trade for time on the machines in the shop. I proposed taking 60% of the design fee, which is $3000 and the remaining balance of $2000 I would take in trade for time on the machines. Erez said that he would run it by Nick for confirmation. The three of us had a brief conversation about this at the shop, and Nick agreed that it was equitable that the remaining balance should be in trade on the machines and that it wasn't equitable that I take the hit. We never came up with an hourly rate on the machines because Erez said that he needed to look into what market rate was, and I agreed that I needed to do the same. We need to establish what that rate is now.

Workbook:

The Workbook has three breakdowns at the end. 1. 50% Cash / 50% Trade , 2. 55% Cash / 45% Trade, and 60% Cash / 40% Trade. I would proposed the 60% Cash / 40% Trade, and I would like you guys to agree to that. We should have had this firmly agreed upon before starting the build, and I should have taken payment for the cash percentage of the design fee before we started the build but we were moving fast and the build out began, and we dove in.

Considerations and Resolution:

I know that this project went over your initial budget but you got what you wanted and I hope that you are happy with the result. I gave you options to cut costs but you opted to keep to the design, which was the best choice, in my opinion, and the room should be doing it's job as a result. As you know, I billed by an 8 hour day even though most days were 12 hours. I would come back after dinner and workout issues, build, make necessary changes, and prepare for the next work day with you guys, so that things could move smoothly. I didn't up charge you on any of the materials and I passed along the savings, especially when it came to the laminated glass. I also waited to submit the hours so that you could recoup some capitol from the rent that you are bringing in from your tenants in the months since we completed the project. I hope that this has helped the hit of going over your initial budget.

I'd like to come and take some pics and hear how effective the room design/build is as well as pick up payment this weekend at some point. Let me know what works best for you. I'll take the payment in the form of a check made out to:

Jerzy Stankowski

Or you can pay me in cash. I know that it was more convenient for Erez to cut the check for the first payment so you can do the same for the second and final payment.

Thanks,

Christian

Ok, re animating this thread.

Christian, I had proposed a full cash buyout for the remainder of the balance, and was wondering what was a number you would feel ok with.

Your full rate was 5000 for design and 8000 for construction (correct me if I'm wrong). Towards that balance we've made one payment of 6000.

We were hoping for a break on the design cost in exchange for a cash buyout (clean break!)

Lemme know, hope all is well down there!

My proposal for an equitable time trade at $100:$100, was in regards to your proposal of your time being worth $250 an hour (150% more than my time), it was not about shop time rate. The trade in personal time would be for any preliminary training needed in order for me to operate the machines, on my time, during the days that I reserve the shop.

The fabric cost will be determined by the measurement of amount used and will be paid in cash.

Please agree to these terms.

Do we have an agreement?

Hey Christian,

Based on our meeting in your apartment (way back before we started the build, but after you had finished the RHINO design and we realized we were already at our 10k budget without having started the build / bought any of the material...)

I asked if you would consider taking a design fee discount, you never agreed to that, but said you would consider it. This 50% proposal is a new but very much appreciated gesture.

That aside, what we did agree on back in mid October, was that any amount over what we had budgeted and agreed to pay based on the initial estimate (10K ALL IN) would be paid for in trade, I remember specifically agreeing to that. You mentioned wanting to be paid equitably (for every hour you put in) and that you were ok with a trade, as long as each hour was accounted for and you were treated equitably.

Past that I don't believe we discussed the arrangement further.

Again, we're really happy with the end result, and we want to make you whole for your work. But we also don't want to agree to new terms that were not discussed or proposed until now.

We're willing to pay you the 10k in cash (almost twice as much as we had budgeted to pay you for this project) and still cover the remaining hours in trade. That is what we had agreed to when we had that conversation in your apartment.

I regret not putting this in writing, but it was such an exhaustive / productive and healthy meeting, I felt like we were on the same page (after clearly not being on the same page during the estimation of the design portion of this project).

As far as matching your hourly rate of 100$, I'm fine to do a direct trade at 100$ an hour for machine shop time for you.

Which would work out to 50 Hours of workshop time for you.

Really want to get this settled this week as well!

We already discussed the agreement. I already made a compromise by taking a percentage of the design fee in trade. Erez, proposed that I take a 50% cash/check payment and I proposed 60%. In going with Erez's proposal the numbers are as follows:

We moved forward under this agreement. Please keep your word.

I need the check or cash for $4422.00 by the end of the week. I will take the remaining $2500 in trade. I think and feel that it is equitable to trade our time equally, at $100:$100, an hour, being that it is the rate that I charged you. I will primarily be using the trade for time on the machines.

Let me know when you can meet and when I can take some pics of the studio.

Thank you.

Erez and I propose the following:

1) We will pay you right now in check/cash for the balance owed in construction ($1922)

2) The remaining design cost of $5000 we are willing to provide in 100% trade, in any combination of the three following:

1. Workshop Access

$150 / day of shop access

Erez's day rate is $2k for video production/consulting (3 days)

Greetings Gentlemen,

Attached is the .xls Workbook, 67 West Work Hours. Please review.

Agreement:

When Erez and I were reviewing the Rhino model at my house before we started building, Erez proposed that I take 50% of the design fee, which was $5000 and that he would pay me for every hour that I put into the build at the full rate of $100 an hour. Erez proposed that I should take the hit on the remaining 50% of the design fee and I disagreed, stating that his proposal wasn't equitable but I would take the remainder of the balance in trade for time on the machines in the shop. I proposed taking 60% of the design fee, which is $3000 and the remaining balance of $2000 I would take in trade for time on the machines. Erez said that he would run it by Nick for confirmation. The three of us had a brief conversation about this at the shop, and Nick agreed that it was equitable that the remaining balance should be in trade on the machines and that it wasn't equitable that I take the hit. We never came up with an hourly rate on the machines because Erez said that he needed to look into what market rate was, and I agreed that I needed to do the same. We need to establish what that rate is now.

Workbook:

The Workbook has three breakdowns at the end. 1. 50% Cash / 50% Trade , 2. 55% Cash / 45% Trade, and 60% Cash / 40% Trade. I would proposed the 60% Cash / 40% Trade, and I would like you guys to agree to that. We should have had this firmly agreed upon before starting the build, and I should have taken payment for the cash percentage of the design fee before we started the build but we were moving fast and the build out began, and we dove in.

Considerations and Resolution:

I know that this project went over your initial budget but you got what you wanted and I hope that you are happy with the result. I gave you options to cut costs but you opted to keep to the design, which was the best choice, in my opinion, and the room should be doing it's job as a result. As you know, I billed by an 8 hour day even though most days were 12 hours. I would come back after dinner and workout issues, build, make necessary changes, and prepare for the next work day with you guys, so that things could move smoothly. I didn't up charge you on any of the materials and I passed along the savings, especially when it came to the laminated glass. I also waited to submit the hours so that you could recoup some capitol from the rent that you are bringing in from your tenants in the months since we completed the project. I hope that this has helped the hit of going over your initial budget.

I'd like to come and take some pics and hear how effective the room design/build is as well as pick up payment this weekend at some point. Let me know what works best for you. I'll take the payment in the form of a check made out to:

Jerzy Stankowski

Or you can pay me in cash. I know that it was more convenient for Erez to cut the check for the first payment so you can do the same for the second and final payment.

Thanks,

Christian

I'll give you a 20% discount on the design work for a walk-away buyout. I'm not excited about working for free as I spent that time working hard on the project and you've had many months to recoup but I need to get paid now, so let's close this out. So the balance would be $4000 for the design, not $5000.

The expenses for the acoustic fabric, which I charged you my cost, are attached in an .xls doc. I added a box of Porter Cable brad nails and a box of Porter Cable staples, we went through the ones that I brought with my tools. The ones that you guys got from Tri-State (Hitachi maybe) damaged my nail gun with all of the jams that occurred so I didn't take that box with me.

Total expense for fabric and fasteners is: $260.

So total balance: $6260.00

$4000 Discounted design

$2000 Construction balance

$260 Fabric and fasteners

You guys still have my A-frame cart, yes? Did I leave anything else with you guys?

Thanks.

$3750 in trade for shop time.

Also, it goes without saying, we are very grateful for all the work you did to get us where we are now. The studio looks fantastic, it's completely soundproof, and we're excited for you to see it / take pics!

Erez and I propose the following:

1) We will pay you right now in check/cash for the balance owed in construction ($1922)

2) The remaining design cost of $5000 we are willing to provide in 100% trade, in any combination of the three following:

1. Workshop Access

$150 / day of shop access

$250 / hr

3. Video Production

Erez's day rate is $2k for video production/consulting (3 days)

Let us know what you think!

Best,

Greetings Gentlemen,

Attached is the .xls Workbook, 67 West Work Hours. Please review.

Agreement:

When Erez and I were reviewing the Rhino model at my house before we started building, Erez proposed that I take 50% of the design fee, which was $5000 and that he would pay me for every hour that I put into the build at the full rate of $100 an hour. Erez proposed that I should take the hit on the remaining 50% of the design fee and I disagreed, stating that his proposal wasn't equitable but I would take the remainder of the balance in trade for time on the machines in the shop. I proposed taking 60% of the design fee, which is $3000 and the remaining balance of $2000 I would take in trade for time on the machines. Erez said that he would run it by Nick for confirmation. The three of us had a brief conversation about this at the shop, and Nick agreed that it was equitable that the remaining balance should be in trade on the machines and that it wasn't equitable that I take the hit. We never came up with an hourly rate on the machines because Erez said that he needed to look into what market rate was, and I agreed that I needed to do the same. We need to establish what that rate is now.

Workbook:

The Workbook has three breakdowns at the end. 1. 50% Cash / 50% Trade , 2. 55% Cash / 45% Trade, and 60% Cash / 40% Trade. I would proposed the 60% Cash / 40% Trade, and I would like you guys to agree to that. We should have had this firmly agreed upon before starting the build, and I should have taken payment for the cash percentage of the design fee before we started the build but we were moving fast and the build out began, and we dove in.

Considerations and Resolution:

I know that this project went over your initial budget but you got what you wanted and I hope that you are happy with the result. I gave you options to cut costs but you opted to keep to the design, which was the best choice, in my opinion, and the room should be doing it's job as a result. As you know, I billed by an 8 hour day even though most days were 12 hours. I would come back after dinner and workout issues, build, make necessary changes, and prepare for the next work day with you guys, so that things could move smoothly. I didn't up charge you on any of the materials and I passed along the savings, especially when it came to the laminated glass. I also waited to submit the hours so that you could recoup some capitol from the rent that you are bringing in from your tenants in the months since we completed the project. I hope that this has helped the hit of going over your initial budget.

I'd like to come and take some pics and hear how effective the room design/build is as well as pick up payment this weekend at some point. Let me know what works best for you. I'll take the payment in the form of a check made out to:

Jerzy Stankowski

Or you can pay me in cash. I know that it was more convenient for Erez to cut the check for the first payment so you can do the same for the second and final payment.

Thanks,

Christian

I'll give you a 20% discount on the design work for a walk-away buyout. I'm not excited about working for free as I spent that time working hard on the project and you've had many months to recoup but I need to get paid now, so let's close this out. So the balance would be $4000 for the design, not $5000.

The expenses for the acoustic fabric, which I charged you my cost, are attached in an .xls doc. I added a box of Porter Cable brad nails and a box of Porter Cable staples, we went through the ones that I brought with my tools. The ones that you guys got from Tri-State (Hitachi maybe) damaged my nail gun with all of the jams that occurred so I didn't take that box with me.

Total expense for fabric and fasteners is: $260.

So total balance: $6260.00

$4000 Discounted design

$2000 Construction balance

$260 Fabric and fasteners

You guys still have my A-frame cart, yes? Did I leave anything else with you guys?

Thanks.

Christian, I had proposed a full cash buyout for the remainder of the balance, and was wondering what was a number you would feel ok with.

Your full rate was 5000 for design and 8000 for construction (correct me if I'm wrong). Towards that balance we've made one payment of 6000.

We were hoping for a break on the design cost in exchange for a cash buyout (clean break!)

Lemme know, hope all is well down there!

Erez, you sat in my room and you asked me to take a 50% cut, I proposed 60%. You said you'd pay the 50% in cash and the after that you'd pay for every hour of construction work that was put, "even if I have to pay out of my own pocket". The only disagreement was that you thought that I should eat the other 50% and said we should trade it for time on the machines. I brought this up with Nick when we were all together, before we started the build, and Nick agreed that it would be equitable to trade shop time for the 50% compromise. We then moved forward. I told you that the build was going cost what it cost, that all of the materials would go to you guys at cost and that I would charge $100 per hour. Full transparency. You came up with the budget of $10k, based on an estimate made by someone who's solution would have not given you anything close to what you were looking for, and called for less than half of the materials and inadequate window solutions, and no interior acoustic treatment. I said that I'd try and come close to it but I didn't know what the cost would be and that we go through the pricing together, with full transparency and no markups on my part, and that we would build it. I gave you opportunities to remove features from the design to save money and you decided to stick with the design and only drop the small window to the right of the door. You guys got exactly what you wanted. I did say that I would trade in time on the machines to ease the burden of going over your initial budget, we never agreed to exactly what that was, and that's on all of us. Keeping that in mind, this is what I propose as an additional compromise to move forward in a harmonious relationship:

I'll do the trade for access to the shop for $150 a day, after hours, etc. like you proposed.

My proposal for an equitable time trade at $100:$100, was in regards to your proposal of your time being worth $250 an hour (150% more than my time), it was not about shop time rate. The trade in personal time would be for any preliminary training needed in order for me to operate the machines, on my time, during the days that I reserve the shop.

The fabric cost will be determined by the measurement of amount used and will be paid in cash.

Please agree to these terms.

Do we have an agreement?

Hey Christian,

Based on our meeting in your apartment (way back before we started the build, but after you had finished the RHINO design and we realized we were already at our 10k budget without having started the build / bought any of the material...)

I asked if you would consider taking a design fee discount, you never agreed to that, but said you would consider it. This 50% proposal is a new but very much appreciated gesture.

That aside, what we did agree on back in mid October, was that any amount over what we had budgeted and agreed to pay based on the initial estimate (10K ALL IN) would be paid for in trade, I remember specifically agreeing to that. You mentioned wanting to be paid equitably (for every hour you put in) and that you were ok with a trade, as long as each hour was accounted for and you were treated equitably.

Past that I don't believe we discussed the arrangement further.

Again, we're really happy with the end result, and we want to make you whole for your work. But we also don't want to agree to new terms that were not discussed or proposed until now.

We're willing to pay you the 10k in cash (almost twice as much as we had budgeted to pay you for this project) and still cover the remaining hours in trade. That is what we had agreed to when we had that conversation in your apartment.

I regret not putting this in writing, but it was such an exhaustive / productive and healthy meeting, I felt like we were on the same page (after clearly not being on the same page during the estimation of the design portion of this project).

As far as matching your hourly rate of 100$, I'm fine to do a direct trade at 100$ an hour for machine shop time for you.

Which would work out to 50 Hours of workshop time for you.

Really want to get this settled this week as well!

The Workbook has three breakdowns at the end. 1. 50% Cash / 50% Trade , 2. 55% Cash / 45% Trade, and 60% Cash / 40% Trade. I would proposed the 60% Cash / 40% Trade, and I would like you guys to agree to that. We should have had this firmly agreed upon before starting the build, and I should have taken payment for the cash percentage of the design fee before we started the build but we were moving fast and the build out began, and we dove in.

Considerations and Resolution:

I know that this project went over your initial budget but you got what you wanted and I hope that you are happy with the result. I gave you options to cut costs but you opted to keep to the design, which was the best choice, in my opinion, and the room should be doing it's job as a result. As you know, I billed by an 8 hour day even though most days were 12 hours. I would come back after dinner and workout issues, build, make necessary changes, and prepare for the next work day with you guys, so that things could move smoothly. I didn't up charge you on any of the materials and I passed along the savings, especially when it came to the laminated glass. I also waited to submit the hours so that you could recoup some capitol from the rent that you are bringing in from your tenants in the months since we completed the project. I hope that this has helped the hit of going over your initial budget.

I'd like to come and take some pics and hear how effective the room design/build is as well as pick up payment this weekend at some point. Let me know what works best for you. I'll take the payment in the form of a check made out to:

Jerzy Stankowski

Or you can pay me in cash. I know that it was more convenient for Erez to cut the check for the first payment so you can do the same for the second and final payment.

Thanks,

Christian

This is the administrative determination. It does not reopen your narrative conference. I have only reviewed the 3 page letter from the Loft Board and not the exhibits. The entire thing needing to be reviewed is over 200 pp., and I did a trial today, remotely, we just got done. I will not be ready to discuss this in specific till at least Tues.

We have the right to seek review of this administrative determination by the entire Loft Board. I think it is possible the Board may not approve it. I am assuming you will want me to apply for that review, but it should be known, it's at least a $2000 legal project. That said, I am not sure you have a choice.

Please let me know when you want to discuss.

Subject: G22 concerns about landlord plans

Sorry, traveling, Jotting down concerns with current landlord plans- if you need something more formal let me know.

The approved plans don't reflect compromise or input from the tenant and are not meant to accommodate tenant usage.

The landlord originally rented me a 4 bedroom space, with open living and dining space. through the process they have not tried to maintain a plan that accounts for its current usage.

Besides removing two of the three bedrooms and converting the remaining bedroom into an alcove, their plan adds three large closets in what is currently living and dining space. The new closets restrict natural light and air to half of the unit and create a hallway in the place of open space. The new walls/closets also section off the kitchen area creating a narrow dead space that isn't functional and has no natural light.

I am told by the landlord that the closets (and their placement) are a requirement by the dob. My architect says the landlord is applying dob rules incorrectly and they do not need to add the closets.

I did not agree to the closets. If something was found to be required after our last loft board meeting I wasn't consulted. Or news of the changes were minimized by the landlord in communications and I did not know the extent. I wasn't consulted about the closets, their placement, etc. in a process where we are meant to work with each other to come to a solution that doesn't completely disrupt usage.

they rented me a 4 bedroom apt for 2750.00 now they plan of turning it into a one "alcove" unit with a series of closets obstructing light and air for 3000.00

-functional space in the apartment shrinks considerably with the creation of new closets, hallway, and dead space.

-no natural light reaches half the apt with new closets/walls

-incorrect application of rules landlord has added closets to disrupt space beyond 30' from exterior windows, it's my understanding to make it uninhabitable beyond thirty feet. My proposals should meet dob needs without compromising space/usage, their proposal disturbs all that as well as detrimental effects on light and air circulation.

Above is the harassment application filed today on your behalf. This application can be amended without problems or undue expense up to the date of the first conference. I don't know the backlog on harassment cases but it's at least a few months. Therefore, if anything comes up that might be harassment, please tell me. Even more important, what other tenants said might lead you to know you were harassed in the same way but didn't mention it to me. A good example of this is Erez' statements about slow repairs. You may all have that problem. Also, if something in the application is wrong, please let me know.

We are planning on sending you a bill on Weds. By that time, the administrative appeal will also be filed. This is not a bill you can pay weeks later, as we advanced application fees for the harassment application and also for the administrative appeal, for velobinding and postage and other expenses associated with service and filing. We would appreciate payment when you receive the bill, if at all possible.

Understood, thanks Margret.

That last bill for about $1000 we did pay right away. Apologies about the one before that, since it was just $35 and I have to send it by check I let it go 60 day until there was another amount added to it bringing it to $210 before I paid it.

We appreciate all the hard work you do for us.

Because the bill was sent to me on Tuesday I was waiting until after the holiday weekend to ask for dues from the other tenants.

Also, Christian and I seemed to have had a miscommunication and I had been waiting to hear back from him. That normally does happen.

We can have this paid by the end of the week. Currently we have $2000. Would you prefer I send you a check for that amount today, and pay the rest at the end of the week? Or would you like us to just have it paid in one check at the end of the week.

Again, thanks for all you do and sorry this was not taken care of asap. I was waiting until Monday to get things figured out and that was my mistake.

Cool, do we have a zoom link?

Also- Stephan Clarke basically ignored my communications this past summer and told me that my concerns with the building were not related to the loft board and to contact a lawyer. He specifically told me the loft board is not an advocate for tenants. Hopefully they're sympathetic to our situation.

Mr. Neratoff,

I am sending you the plans for the three jobs that are the topic of tomorrow's LB conference, Job numbers 321785154, 340670465 & 340670456 for your review in advance of tomorrow's conference.

In summary, the Hot water application calls to remove all hot water heaters from tenant spaces. As such, there should be no interference with tenant space by said hot water heaters since they will be located in a central location in the building. The Sprinkler plan is simply a modification plan and we are agreeable that any layout change on the Alt1 may require a revision of this application. Same for the standpipe application.

Understood, thanks Margret.

That last bill for about $1000 we did pay right away. Apologies about the one before that, since it was just $35 and I have to send it by check I let it go 60 day until there was another amount added to it bringing it to $210 before I paid it.

We appreciate all the hard work you do for us.

Because the bill was sent to me on Tuesday I was waiting until after the holiday weekend to ask for dues from the other tenants.

Also, Christian and I seemed to have had a miscommunication and I had been waiting to hear back from him. That normally does happen.

We can have this paid by the end of the week. Currently we have $2000. Would you prefer I send you a check for that amount today, and pay the rest at the end of the week? Or would you like us to just have it paid in one check at the end of the week.

Again, thanks for all you do and sorry this was not taken care of asap. I was waiting until Monday to get things figured out and that was my mistake.

Subject: PAA Strategy

Greetings,

It is becoming clear to me, again, that the only way affect any real change with Marty is to leverage his income. This is the only way we've ever gotten anything done in the past as a group. I'm not sure why I didn't bring this up before but I will do it now. I think that we should all stop paying rent until Marty signs off on the PAA's. The contract that we signed through Petrucci stating that we would pay rent throughout the legalization process, is not enforceable. The precedent was set by a court ruling in favor of a group of Loft Law protected TA that David Frazier reps, somewhat recently. The dispute and case was centered around the same type of agreement that we signed. Margaret is confident that she will win if Marty tries to enforce the agreement. We are spending money on this harassment case, which may work but may not, and we may never get a court date at OATH. It seems to me that if we collectively stop paying rent on an agreed upon date than this would provide the best leverage to get Marty to agree to signing off on the PAA's. In the end he'll never push to get the work actually done, he doesn't want to pay anything out of pocket, but we will have the option to do the work ourselves if we are so inclined and he won't be able to harass us with access letters, construction shenanigans, and undesirable floor plans, etc... We should have done this a while ago...

This could potentially help the other units that are seeking LL protection and will come up against this same type of harassment from Marty.

Maybe the withheld rent can go in escrow that can be refunded to Marty if he signs off, as an added incentive. Or not. Let's figure out a game plan.

Any thoughts? Please let me know ASAP.

I would like to bring this up with Margaret soon but would like to get a consensus first. I think that everyone would need to be onboard for the TA to make a move. Strength in numbers, including dollar amounts...

Thanks,

Christian

I just came out to the west coast to guide in Yosemite again for the summer just this week.

I'm curious of everyone's thoughts.

Again, wanted to reply so I didn't leave you hanging but the last time we withheld rent, even though it all worked out and we didn't have to pay it back - I was so stressed out.

Let me think about my questions and I'll get back to you.

Maybe we should have a zoom meeting about this if our schedules allow.

In general I'm hesitant to stop rent and escalate tensions with Marty these days. I'd rather avoid scrutiny from Marty and for now just stay in limbo as we have been for the last two years. If Margaret thought that was going to change or was anticipating actions from Marty I'd be open to talking about other steps.

Correct me if I'm wrong- the current steps we are taking against Marty with the harassment stuff is to push him into signing off on the PAA. right? Chris- your unit is in a different situation since the water damage so I understand the greater urgency. How is that going? If that was resolved would you be more comfortable in maintaining what the rest of us have currently?

Without more input from Margaret I'm inclined to let the process continue as is. I would definitely be open to hearing what Margaret thinks about this and any updates she may have about the harassment stuff etc. the pandemic really altered my routine/life so as I'm finding a new rhythm etc I don't really want to shake everything up again if we don't need to.

I am still dealing with the mold issues in the loft and I would like to make changes when the mold remediation is finished, and that would involve getting the PAA approved, because Marty is unwilling to let me make any changes to the layout on the DOB plan. My objective is to rebuild my space to a new layout. If this situation were resolved and I got to build what I wanted, I would be fine with the letting the situation ride. If I don't get to rebuild the new design, I'll live with it and make the most out of it.

I understand why you'd like to let it ride, as is, and don't need scrutiny from Marty. Also know that if it comes down to Marty scrutinizing the situation, then he will do so retroactively from the time it becomes an issue, so be wise with records etc..

Anyway, I want to get everybody's thoughts on this before speaking with Margaret.

And, yes, the Harassment Case is to get Marty to sign off on the PAA's but it seems that leveraging the rent situation would be much more effective and much less expensive. The situation could potentially be resolved quickly and everything would go back to the way it is, because Marty doesn't want to spend money on any build-outs. Approving the PAA's costs Marty nothing, in fact, he already agreed to it, we just don't have it in writing. Marty doesn't want to invest any money into the building and he would rather collect his rent from you and let it go on as is...in my opinion.

Kate mentioned setting up a Zoom meeting. I think that's a good idea. When are people available?

Peace,

Christian

Correct me if I'm wrong- the current steps we are taking against Marty with the harassment stuff is to push him into signing off on the PAA. right? Chris- your unit is in a different situation since the water damage so I understand the greater urgency. How is that going? If that was resolved would you be more comfortable in maintaining what the rest of us have currently?

Without more input from Margaret I'm inclined to let the process continue as is. I would definitely be open to hearing what Margaret thinks about this and any updates she may have about the harassment stuff etc. the pandemic really altered my routine/life so as I'm finding a new rhythm etc I don't really want to shake everything up again if we don't need to.

Subject: PAA Strategy

Greetings,

It is becoming clear to me, again, that the only way affect any real change with Marty is to leverage his income. This is the only way we've ever gotten anything done in the past as a group. I'm not sure why I didn't bring this up before but I will do it now. I think that we should all stop paying rent until Marty signs off on the PAA's. The contract that we signed through Petrucci stating that we would pay rent throughout the legalization process, is not enforceable. The precedent was set by a court ruling in favor of a group of Loft Law protected TA that David Frazier reps, somewhat recently. The dispute and case was centered around the same type of agreement that we signed. Margaret is confident that she will win if Marty tries to enforce the agreement. We are spending money on this harassment case, which may work but may not, and we may never get a court date at OATH. It seems to me that if we collectively stop paying rent on an agreed upon date than this would provide the best leverage to get Marty to agree to signing off on the PAA's. In the end he'll never push to get the work actually done, he doesn't want to pay anything out of pocket, but we will have the option to do the work ourselves if we are so inclined and he won't be able to harass us with access letters, construction shenanigans, and undesirable floor plans, etc.. We should have done this a while ago...

This could potentially help the other units that are seeking LL protection and will come up against this same type of harassment from Marty.

Maybe the withheld rent can go in escrow that can be refunded to Marty if he signs off, as an added incentive. Or not. Let's figure out a game plan.

Any thoughts? Please let me know ASAP.

I would like to bring this up with Margaret soon but would like to get a consensus first. I think that everyone would need to be onboard for the TA to make a move. Strength in numbers, including dollar amounts...

Thanks,

Christian

Everyone's making lots of good points.

I'm on the west coast so 3 hours behind everyone.

I have the 11th, 12th, 14th, 18th, and 19th off. I could make any time work on those days.
Otherwise I usually work 6:30am - 7pm PCT.

I am still dealing with the mold issues in the loft and I would like to make changes when the mold remediation is finished, and that would involve getting the PAA approved, because Marty is unwilling to let me make any changes to the layout on the DOB plan. My objective is to rebuild my space to a new layout. If this situation were resolved and I got to build what I wanted, I would be fine with the letting the situation ride. If I don't get to rebuild the new design, I'll live with it and make the most out of it.

I understand why you'd like to let it ride, as is, and don't need scrutiny from Marty. Also know that if it comes down to Marty scrutinizing the situation, then he will do so retroactively from the time it becomes an issue, so be wise with records etc..

Anyway, I want to get everybody's thoughts on this before speaking with Margaret.

And, yes, the Harassment Case is to get Marty to sign off on the PAA's but it seems that leveraging the rent situation would be much more effective and much less expensive. The situation could potentially be resolved quickly and everything would go back to the way it is, because Marty doesn't want to spend money on any build-outs. Approving the PAA's costs Marty nothing, in fact, he already agreed to it, we just don't have it in writing. Marty doesn't want to invest any money into the building and he would rather collect his rent from you and let it go on as is...in my opinion.

Kate mentioned setting up a Zoom meeting. I think that's a good idea. When are people available?

Peace,

Christian

Subject: Possible buy outsl

I know Christian is away and will not get this message promptly.

We will soon have a conference on the harassment case. It has been suggested that if all or several of you want to be bought out, it may make sense to make a group proposal.

I want to point out that to keep your Loft Law rights, you have to be a primary resident. It is no longer safe to rely on the idea that the pandemic is keeping you away. Also, if anyone is profiteering on their unit, that alone is cause for eviction. If anyone is doing any of these things, the landlord can get rid of you by evicting you, and does not have to buy you out.

If anyone wants to try to participate in a group buyout, please contact me individually. But people's respective buyout demands have to make sense taken together.

I think the landlord will entertain paying more than $200,000 per unit but unless you have special factors, I am not sure they will pay double that.

This buyout conversation came as a real surprise to me. I really didn't want to sell my rights any time soon. I really love having a big loft in GP. Because of that the amount I would need is high.

A few years ago when everyone else was selling Marty asked me to make him an offer. I said 1 million.

I know that sounds high but I explained it wasn't just a random number. When I made that offer I gave him multiple spread sheets of the research I had done to come up with a number that would allow me to stay in GP even if it meant downsizing a great deal. I researched the average cost of sq ft in GP and what other apartments and rents were going for.

I'm curious to hear everyone's thoughts.

Margret said 2 people from the group wanted to take a buyout. If that's true do those that are feel comfortable sharing?

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Did anyone in this group tell her that?

Also also, we just had a pre trial meeting with Margaret and Marty for this harassment complaint we've all brought against the building. Obviously no agreement to resolve was reached, but the main thing I thought was worth noting is that IF we go forward with our harassment to trial and IF Marty is found guilty, Marty's punishment for being guilty of harassment would be an inability for him to EVER turn our units into non rent controlled units, even if we do leave. This would remove any incentive to buy us out, as the unit would become forever rent controlled. At least that was my understanding.

Subject: Re: Buyouts etc

I haven't talked with Margaret about any other units either.

I was also concerned last week about the harassment case in relation to buyouts. I'm a little confused why Margaret did not mention it in her email the other day.

I've been thinking of leaving New York lately so I am curious about a buyout. Up to this point I was similar to Erez in my attitude about the loft. In 2019 I didn't have any interest in leaving but now a couple years later I might and I would prefer to sell the rights over leaving with nothing. My number at this point would be lower than 750k mostly for easier negotiation and the fact that I'd be leaving Nyc real estate.

I recall in 2019 being told we all needed to take the buyout for Marty to consider it at one point. Im wondering if this is how he starts things. I certainly would sell for 750k, if that was a starting point for group negotiation but I doubt Chris is in a position to sell his rights for that number, etc.

In related (?) news- I was told the tenant in Alan Tansey's old loft may want to gather financing etc and buy the building or something like that. I think his name is Ty? I haven't met him. He hosted some dimes square play stuff this past winter. Apparently he doesn't want to leave he wants to talk to me about his ideas, something about better buyouts for existing tenants, going co-op etc. I said if he wanted to give me his info and some ideas I would pass them along to our group.

This stuff stresses me out.

Subject: Re: Buyouts etc

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft. pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. Arent strike could work as well. Withholding rent has been the only strategy that has worked in the past to get Marty to do anything.

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot. I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit if Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

Hello,

Does anyone have any thoughts about Margaret's email? Is there a number that could be reached for everyone? I know we have all sorts of issues affecting our choices here so I assume some of us do not have a number.

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

work as well. Withholding rent has been the only strategy that has worked in the past to get Marty to do anything.

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

If I'm missing something please let me know.

Either way we will get what we owe you in the next week.

Subject: A proposal to buy the building

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My

name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As

I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against your units. We could then convert the space currently occupied by the factory into either commercial or residential units in order to finance repairs to the building.

the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed), etc.

In

short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

would be more than happy to talk with one or all of you in person if it is possible, so please do not hesitate to reach out to me by phone at 847-525-6270 or email at tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

That's the first time I've seen that email. We should schedule a meeting with him to get more details.

I'm flexible with timing for a zoom meeting with the TA and then with Ty. We should meet as a TA first and get on the same page then schedule a meeting with Ty.

Peace,

Subject: A proposal to buy the building

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

I know that sounds high but I explained it wasn't just a random number. When I made that offer I gave him multiple spread sheets of the research I had done to come up with a number that would

I'm curious to hear everyone's thoughts.

Margret said 2 people from the group wanted to take a buyout. If that's true do those that are feel comfortable sharing?

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Did anyone in this group tell her that?

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

I would be more than happy to talk with one or all of you in person if it is possible, so please do not hesitate to reach out to me by phone at 847-525-6270 or email at tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit if Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit if Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Did anyone in this group tell her that?

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Christian

How is Ty involved with the buyouts? Isn't he living in Alan's former loft and Alan, I think..., sold his rights to Marty already?

Where did he get the $500k number? What is his formula?

Let's pick a time on Tuesday. Does morning, afternoon, or eve work best for people?

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could work as well. Withholding rent has been the only strategy that has worked in the past to get Marty to do anything.

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has

in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),
etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

847-525-6270 or email at

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has

in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed), etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

I would be more than happy to talk with one or all of you in person if it is possible, so please do not hesitate to reach out to me by phone at

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

Subject: A proposal to buy the building

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

This buyout conversation came as a real surprise to me. I really didn't want to sell my rights any time soon. I really love having a big loft in GP. Because of that the amount I would need is high.

A few years ago when everyone else was selling Marty asked me to make him an offer. I said 1 million.

I know that sounds high but I explained it wasn't just a random number. When I made that offer I gave him multiple spread sheets of the research I had done to come up with a number that would allow me to stay in

GP even if it meant downsizing a great deal. I researched the average cost of sq ft in GP and what other apartments and rents were going for.

I'm curious to hear everyone's thoughts.

Margret said 2 people from the group wanted to take a buyout. If that's true do those that are feel comfortable sharing?

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Did anyone in this group tell her that?

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has

in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has

in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed), etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has

in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

Subject: A proposal to buy the building

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),
etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

847-525-6270 or email at
tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Ty

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

This buyout conversation came as a real surprise to me. I really didn't want to sell my rights any time soon. I really love having a big loft in GP. Because of that the amount I would need is high.

A few years ago when everyone else was selling Marty asked me to make him an offer. I said 1 million.

I know that sounds high but I explained it wasn't just a random number. When I made that offer I gave him multiple spread sheets of the research I had done to come up with a number that would allow me to stay in

GP even if it meant downsizing a great deal. I researched the average cost of sq ft in GP and what other apartments and rents were going for.

I'm curious to hear everyone's thoughts.

Margret said 2 people from the group wanted to take a buyout. If that's true do those that are feel comfortable sharing?

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Did anyone in this group tell her that?

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Did anyone in this group tell her that?

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has

in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

Subject: A proposal to buy the building

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed), etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has

in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could work as well. Withholding rent has been the only strategy that has worked in the past to get Marty to do anything.

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

I know that sounds high but I explained it wasn't just a random number. When I made that offer I gave him multiple spread sheets of the research I had done to come up with a number that would allow me to stay in

GP even if it meant downsizing a great deal. I researched the average cost of sq ft in GP and what other apartments and rents were going for.

I'm curious to hear everyone's thoughts.

Margret said 2 people from the group wanted to take a buyout. If that's true do those that are feel comfortable sharing?

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Did anyone in this group tell her that?

A few years ago when everyone else was selling Marty asked me to make him an offer. I said 1 million.

I know that sounds high but I explained it wasn't just a random number. When I made that offer I gave him multiple spread sheets of the research I had done to come up with a number that would allow me to stay in

GP even if it meant downsizing a great deal. I researched the average cost of sq ft in GP and what other apartments and rents were going for.

I'm curious to hear everyone's thoughts.

Margret said 2 people from the group wanted to take a buyout. If that's true do those that are feel comfortable sharing?

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Did anyone in this group tell her that?

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

Subject: A proposal to buy the building

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed), etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

847-525-6270 or email at
tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

Subject: A proposal to buy the building

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

This buyout conversation came as a real surprise to me. I really didn't want to sell my rights any time soon. I really love having a big loft in GP. Because of that the amount I would need is high.

A few years ago when everyone else was selling Marty asked me to make him an offer. I said 1 million.

I know that sounds high but I explained it wasn't just a random number. When I made that offer I gave him multiple spread sheets of the research I had done to come up with a number that would allow me to stay in

GP even if it meant downsizing a great deal. I researched the average cost of sq ft in GP and what other apartments and rents were going for.

I'm curious to hear everyone's thoughts.

Margret said 2 people from the group wanted to take a buyout. If that's true do those that are feel comfortable sharing?

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

Did anyone in this group tell her that?

I haven't spoken to Margaret about anyone's living situation. I don't know where she's getting her info from, outside of any direct conversation with each individual member of the TA.

I am not particularly interested in taking a buyout at the moment and the situation is made more complex with the fact that I have two other court cases against him re: mold remediation as well as damages related to the flood in 2019.

That being said, I have a friend who is willing to help me put together a number. He deals with commercial real estate assets and has formulas to come up with these kind of valuations. I need to find out the present day commercial/mixed use cost per sq.ft.

pricing for the area of Greenpoint that we're in. Any ideas or resources? I'm going to reach out to some friends of mine who deal in real estate but let me know if you have any relevant numbers or can get them and I'll plug them in or pass along the formula

when I get it.

It's still my intention to get the PAA signed off on and it seems that Marty is unwilling to do that. We'll see what Margaret has in mind. Subpoenaing the minutes from our last Narrative Conference would probably be one of the moves. A rent strike could

Marty has given the ultimatum of everyone takes the buyout or no one gets one, in the past. He also said that would be the only time a buyout would ever be put on the table. It is definitely not in his interest to be hit with a harassment violation. Erez

is right in the fact that if Marty gets violated by even one of our harassment suits then he loses his right to buyout any of the units, indefinitely. It is my understanding that a developer can buy the building and then buyout the units, but Marty cannot.

I may be wrong about this. As Margaret made clear, we are willing to drop the suit of Marty signs off on the PAA's. Marty is playing hardball and a game of chicken. It's not in any of our interests for Marty to get a harassment violation in the end but it seems that Marty has the most to lose if he does. We are also not legally bound to pay rent so he could end up with units that he cannot buyout, harass, or receive rent from.

We should figure out a time for a zoom call so we can get on the same page, expeditiously, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

Also - Margret said that one of the tenants told her I stayed with family outside of the city.

I spoke to Margaret-

We do understand the harassment case correctly and it sounds like Margaret agrees with Chris. If I understood her correctly she still isn't talking about taking it all the way. But- she doesn't know if Marty is listening to his lawyers as much as he has

in the past and his new team of lawyers may let him shoot himself in the foot etc.

She is encouraging us to talk and see if there is a buyout number some of us would settle on if negotiations can happen. she doesn't know how long this process will continue and stressed again that some of us may be vulnerable to eviction because of residence

issues and we should consider that in our numbers. She also said that we may have an inflated sense of how much our rights are worth.

I am a little unsure about how I am going to move forward. I am considering withholding rent hoping that a buyout materializes or I eventually just leave. I think if Marty says there isn't a buyout on the horizon, perhaps I don't need to keep giving him

rent. I am curious about alternatives- that email from ty sounded nice. I'd be happy to let somebody out there buy the building etc. if I am eventually running out of steam and looking for a way to cashout. we should definitely have a chat soon- Chris would you be willing to talk to him next time you're around the building? Or we can chat first- Im curious about what this guy thinks my rights are worth etc. I can do a zoom on the 2nd or 6th if that is what Kate needs. Lets chat.

Subject: A proposal to buy the building

To: <james.duesterberg@gmail.com>

Hi everyone,

My name is Tynan, but everyone just calls me Ty, and I live in F119. I've been trying to figure out a way we can all walk away happy from this while trying to maximize your gain, keep current tenants in their homes and out of a nightmare rental market, and

preventing the further development of Greenpoint into a neighborhood unattainable for many of the creatives and long term tenants which make this neighborhood so wonderful. Which is why I believe our best course of action is to buy the building.

As I'm sure you are aware given the massive steel support beams on Green street, the building appears to have serious structural issues. We should hire a structural engineer to assess the condition of the building. If the building is structurally sound but

needs a reasonable amount of investment for repair // making it legal, we can go with option one below. If the ability to repair the building is beyond any ability to acquire financing, we can go with option two. What is and is not considered reasonable is

a question of financial modeling which I am actively working on.

Our first option is to buy the building, buy you out of your loft law agreement, and convert the building into a cooperative structure under which tenants will be moved to a lease-to-own structure. This would have several benefits. The first is that it would

prevent the building from being torn down and replaced with a tower. The second is that by going to outside financing, I believe we can get you a much better deal. The third is that we can make everyone in the building home owners without the need for a mortgage

approval on an individual basis. With this setup, you could choose to sell your units or continue to live in your units and accrue equity. You could even use your buyouts to immediately pay down the loans the cooperative corporation would take out against

If the building is beyond our ability to repair, it will eventually need to be torn down regardless of who owns it. In order to achieve the best possible outcome for both you and the other tenants of the building, I believe we should find an outside partner

and basically hand them the property on a silver platter in exchange for a sweetheart deal for both you and the non-loft law tenants in the building. However before we get into the details, I would like to note that this option is really only viable if the

building will literally stand for a long enough period of time (five years minimum, ideally ten). If it cannot, then there are other additional avenues we can pursue but this letter is already longer than I anticipated. For you, we can achieve a larger buyout

of your loft law protection either by a fixed cash payment upfront or by being cut in on the proceeds of any future development on the property. For the other tenants, we can let them live in the building for the remainder of its life at drastically reduced

rents. This will let current non-loft law tenants build up savings they can use to secure another rental or potentially a down payment to purchase a unit of their own. In addition, I believe we can add modest quality of life improvements such as making sure

the sidewalk on Freeman street does not funnel water towards the structure, the return of the really nice deck that was once on the roof, immediate repairs to holes in the walls (a bird recently flew into my living room while all the windows were closed),

etc.

In short, I and the experts I've spoken with strongly believe that your loft law protections provide you enormous leverage and I think we should get creative about utilizing it.

tynan.s.daly@gmail.com.

Cheers,

Ty

Subject: Buyouts

This is a strategic moment to try to do a group buyout. The legal team for the building has changed and it may be true that they will only do buyouts if everyone participates. If we do not make a group proposal now we will have to withdraw the harassment case if anyone wants to be bought out in the future. I don't know if we will ever succeed in getting your PAAs and for some of you, without the PAA, your units don't suit your needs.

I have an important conference on legal issues in this case on Thursday. This is not a conference that involves you.

I would very much like to hear from each of you with a reasonable buyout number by Thurs. morning first thing.

Subject: Thoughts above the buyout
Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

It's my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It seems to me that this would be an ideal situation to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600. My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft
@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said, Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Subject: Harassment case

I have not heard from some of you. I want to make sure you understand that if we proceed on the harassment case, it is unlikely you will ever be bought out because the landlord will not be able to deregulate your units. If we do not proceed on the harassment case, you will not get the PAA's that some of you need. So that you know, I am authorized to negotiate buyouts for Lockhart and Post/Hanover who are not yet covered. I cannot be required to get people

I don't represent out of the building - I hear there is someone I don't represent with a high demand but the landlord is not asking me to work that out.

Those of you who have contacted me have raised questions that others may also have. For example, if you are vulnerable to a primary residence case, that of course affects a buyout. At some point, the landlord will just pay his lawyers to evict you rather than pay you money. Price per sq. foot was raised by one of you – but that has no bearing on this type of buyout. It is not determined by sq. ft. The issue of a subpoena for Loft Board records about the PAA's was raised. I can't ask for a subpoena until there is a trial date and the subpoena is returnable (must be complied with) on the trial date, so we can't at this time get that information.

This is very time sensitive. All I can do is give you the best of my advice. Some of you are vulnerable to a primary residence case. I know that if you ever leave the building, all of you want to be bought out, and not just move out. I'd suggest you talk with one another because a total package has to make sense. I am also completely willing to schedule a meeting by Zoom or some other platform, or at my office, if it would help.

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person, but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

What is your availability early next week? We are hoping to meet before hand and collect our thoughts before then.

Apologies for the delay. My checks were in my van and I've been staying in different towns every night for work. Then the fires broke out in Yosemite and delayed my getting back there.

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Remember that Margaret can subpoena the Narrative Conference record that clearly has all parties agreeing to the PAA and also agreeing to put it in writing. I was sitting there and witnessed the whole thing.

I think if we got that evidence it would obviously make our case for the PAA but could also strengthen our position for negotiating higher buyouts.

As I said before, I'd like to get the PAA signed off on and rebuild my place and move back in but if the buyout were high enough, I'd consider leaving.

Thanks for sending that off Kate, I'll let Margeret know its on the way.

In the future can we do a credit card or ach payment for speeds sake?

Margaret is available to meet on Monday anytime before 1pm. Can we all make something in that window work?

Also, we should figure out a time to meet this weekend as a group before then to put together a master list of questions for Margeret so we're not wasting time (money).

Subject: Re: Thoughts above the buyout

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to ask her to represent us in it. She explicitly told me that I especially have a strong case that would most likely win in court, now she is changing her tune, because in my opinion, she wants to cash out on the buyouts.

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the contract. Has anyone else signed or discussed this with Margaret? She tried to say the Golden Drum would have to pay her a percentage of their buyout after they fired her and went with a different lawyer. We should all be on the same page about this. We need to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Subject: Harassment case

I have not heard from some of you. I want to make sure you understand that if we proceed on the harassment case, it is unlikely you will ever be bought out because the landlord will not be able to deregulate your units. If we do not proceed on the harassment case, you will not get the PAA's that some of you need. So that you know, I am authorized to negotiate buyouts for Lockhart and Post/Hanover who are not yet covered. I cannot be required to get people I don't represent out of the building - I hear there is someone I don't represent with a high demand but the landlord is not asking me to work that out.

Those of you who have contacted me have raised questions that others may also have. For example, if you are vulnerable to a primary residence case, that of course affects a buyout.

At some point, the landlord will just pay his lawyers to evict you rather than pay you money. Price per sq. foot was raised by one of you - but that has no bearing on this type of buyout. It is not determined by sq. ft. The issue of a subpoena for Loft

Board records about the PAA's was raised. I can't ask for a subpoena until there is a trial date and the subpoena is returnable (must be complied with) on the trial date, so we can't at this time get that information.

This is very time sensitive. All I can do is give you the best of my advice. Some of you are vulnerable to a primary residence case. I know that if you ever leave the building, all of you want to be bought out, and not just move out. I'd suggest you talk with one another because a total package has to make sense. I am also completely willing to schedule a meeting by Zoom or some other platform, or at my office, if it would help.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

ask her to represent us in it. She explicitly told me that I especially have a strong case that would most likely win in court, now she is changing her tune, because in my opinion, she wants to cash out on the buyouts.

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

contract. Has anyone else signed or discussed this with Margaret? She tried to say the Golden Drum would have to pay her a percentage of their buyout after they fired her and went with a different lawyer. We should all be on the same page about this. We need to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Margaret is available to meet on Monday anytime before 1pm. Can we all make something in that window work?

Also, we should figure out a time to meet this weekend as a group before then to put together a master list of questions for Margeret so we're not wasting time (money).

As I said before, I'd like to get the PAA signed off on and rebuild my place and move back in but if the buyout were high enough, I'd consider leaving.

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the contract. Has anyone else signed or discussed this with Margaret? She tried to say the Golden Drum would have to pay her a percentage of their buyout after they fired her and went with a different lawyer. We should all be on the same page about this. We need to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Subject: Re: Thoughts above the buyout

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP. I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why I was a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Kate

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everything she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anything next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everything could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Christian

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together.

I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP. I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him

try.

to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it.

She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized

by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream

if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away, and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330.

It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner. Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together.

I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP. I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans.

But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him

try.

to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it.

She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized

by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why I was a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream

if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away, and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330.

It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner. Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the contract. Has anyone else signed or discussed this with Margaret? She tried to say the Golden Drum would have to pay her a percentage of their buyout after they fired her and went with a different lawyer. We should all be on the same page about this. We need to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Happy to be that person, but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Great write up, Ty for all this Kate. I know Christian has reached out to the Kolbs, is it worth getting together one more time before having a group meeting with Margaret? And if so is there a time that works for everybody. I'm available this morning until 12 and then I'll be back available tomorrow in the afternoon for the rest of the week.

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together.

I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP. I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him

try.

to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it.

She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized

by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream

if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away, and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330.

It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner. Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

I think if we got that evidence it would obviously make our case for the PAA but could also strengthen our position for negotiating higher buyouts.

As I said before, I'd like to get the PAA signed off on and rebuild my place and move back in but if the buyout were high enough, I'd consider leaving.

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person, but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said, Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Like David said, we didn't come to her to negotiate a buyout! When the subject was mentioned, we said we would rather stay and get PAAs (or not), but would be willing to listen to an offer. We didn't "authorize" her as far as I know, but perhaps need to look at her TA retainer/contract just in case.

We would like to discuss more and bring questions in a TA meeting today if possible.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to

There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

It's my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together.

I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new lawyers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP. I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it.

She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admit I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized

by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why I was a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream

if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away, and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everything she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330.

It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner. Marty can't build anything next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everything could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Kate

Thank you Katherine, for the report on your conversation with Margaret. She said basically the same thing to Unit G12 on this past Friday in a call that she initiated. Like David said, we didn't come to her to negotiate a buyout! When the subject was mentioned, we said we would rather stay and get PAAs (or not), but would be willing to listen to an offer. We didn't "authorize" her as far as I know, but perhaps need to look at her TA retainer/contract just in case.

We would like to discuss more and bring questions in a TA meeting today if possible.

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP. I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him

She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized

by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330.

It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner. Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery

ask her to represent us in it. She explicitly told me that I especially have a strong case that would most likely win in court, now she is changing her tune, because in my opinion, she wants to cash out on the buyouts.

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

I agree with Kate, it does matter that Margaret would say that, it's disingenuous. She's using a lie to get us to move into a buyout negotiation. One where she would be making $270,000, according to her buyout recommendations. It seems like she is putting her own agenda before ours and fabricating stories to sway us, as individuals. Divide and conquer.

Erez, did you give Margaret the $750,000 number? Or did anyone else? Maybe David did when he talked with her.

David, Margaret should not be pressuring you to take a buyout by using scare tactics, she should not be telling the rest of the group that you and Phil reached out to her to negotiate a buyout. She told me that Theo, Phil's roommate, authorized negotiation rights to her. That means not only does she have the right to negotiate a buyout, that also means that you have to take the number that she gives you, and she gets 10% of the payout.

The Golden Drum fired her because she negotiated a buyout without their final authorization and she said she wouldn't represent them anymore if they didn't take it. They fired her. The buyout was ridiculously low, and she agreed to fact that is was really low when I called her out on it. Margaret is already telling me that I have a weak harassment case, which is the complete opposite of what she has been telling me, and said to not "make her represent" me is such a case. Disappointing to say the least. Clearly there's something else going on.

She originally stated that several people in the group had approached her about a buyout. Not reality.

We didn't hire her to negotiate a buyout. That was never put in the table. We paid a lot of money to proceed with a harassment case to leverage a PAA, not a buyout.

Getting the PAA will only strengthen our position in maximizing a buyout, as well as allow us to build our desired layouts.

We should meet as a group before we meet with Margaret. Let's figure out a time for this week. Sooner the better.

This is a delicate situation with Margaret. We need to get on the same page as a group and move forward cohesively.

Please keep this discussion to yourself. We should share info with Margaret after we get on the same page as a group.

Either way, we should have her subpoena the NC records. The Loft Board will most likely not hold on to them until the actual day of the trial. If we have the record pre-trial, it will strengthen our case and may cause Marty to give us the PAA...but maybe not. Either way we'll have the evidence.

We should look into finding another Loft Law attorney, one that is younger and not seemingly trying to cash out before retirement. Margaret can be an effective advocate when she wants to be and she has many years of experience so let's play it by ear but have another option, if need be.

Peace,

Christian

Also, we should figure out a time to meet this weekend as a group before then to put together a master list of questions for Margeret so we're not wasting time (money).

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Also, if we get the NC record, it has Bob Petrucci asking for the PAA agreement in writing.

He's telling Margaret that he wasn't hired for that reason. That was the only reason that we had him there, for situations like that, and to get the agreements in a binding contract. We can ask him for our $ back. He'll probably just give it to us. Maybe.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together.

I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new lawyers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP. I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it.

She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why I was a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream

if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away, and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everything she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330.

It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner. Marty can't build anything next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everything could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him

try.

to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it.

She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized

by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream

if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away, and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330.

It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner. Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Greetings TA,

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

I was pretty careful speaking with her to keep conversation about me and not others, certainly not with specifics. I recall saying "you'll need to speak to them" when she volunteered info or asked about anybody else.

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

Also, if we get the NC record, it has Bob Petrucci asking for the PAA agreement in writing.

He's telling Margaret that he wasn't hired for that reason. That was the only reason that we had him there, for situations like that, and to get the agreements in a binding contract. We can ask him for our $ back. He'll probably just give it to us. Maybe.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

I think if we got that evidence it would obviously make our case for the PAA but could also strengthen our position for negotiating higher buyouts.

As I said before, I'd like to get the PAA signed off on and rebuild my place and move back in but if the buyout were high enough, I'd consider leaving.

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

It's my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the contract. Has anyone else signed or discussed this with Margaret? She tried to say the Golden Drum would have to pay her a percentage of their buyout after they fired her and went with a different lawyer. We should all be on the same page about this. We need to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Christian

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person, but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

I was pretty careful speaking with her to keep conversation about me and not others, certainly not with specifics. I recall saying "you'll need to speak to them" when she volunteered info or asked about anybody else.

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

He's telling Margaret that he wasn't hired for that reason. That was the only reason that we had him there, for situations like that, and to get the agreements in a binding contract. We can ask him for our $ back. He'll probably just give it to us. Maybe.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everything she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Also, we should figure out a time to meet this weekend as a group before then to put together a master list of questions for Margeret so we're not wasting time (money).

I think if we got that evidence it would obviously make our case for the PAA but could also strengthen our position for negotiating higher buyouts.

As I said before, I'd like to get the PAA signed off on and rebuild my place and move back in but if the buyout were high enough, I'd consider leaving.

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everything she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anything next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everything could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

I was pretty careful speaking with her to keep conversation about me and not others, certainly not with specifics. I recall saying "you'll need to speak to them" when she volunteered info or asked about anybody else.

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

Also, if we get the NC record, it has Bob Petrucci asking for the PAA agreement in writing.

He's telling Margaret that he wasn't hired for that reason. That was the only reason that we had him there, for situations like that, and to get the agreements in a binding contract. We can ask him for our $ back. He'll probably just give it to us. Maybe.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new lawyers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why I was a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everything she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anything next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everything could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

As I said before, I'd like to get the PAA signed off on and rebuild my place and move back in but if the buyout were high enough, I'd consider leaving.

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

As I said before, I'd like to get the PAA signed off on and rebuild my place and move back in but if the buyout were high enough, I'd consider leaving.

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

It's my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the contract. Has anyone else signed or discussed this with Margaret? She tried to say the Golden Drum would have to pay her a percentage of their buyout after they fired her and went with a different lawyer. We should all be on the same page about this. We need to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Notes and questions from 7/20/2022 FTA meeting

David will hang a little longer if we are doing a group buyout. If we are taking the long road he'll sel now.

Discussed subpoenaing Loft Board meeting where everyone agreed on the PAAs. Can only do that through some kind of case.

Is there another way Marty can demo the building that we don't know about? One where we wouldn't get as much for our rights?

Is the DOB fining Marty for putting the steel polls up on Green St?

Is Marty's daughter taking over APC?

Point - Marty can't get hit with harassment.

Point - Kate, Erez, Christain would be fine with keeping the PAAs as is just not preferable.

Find out about subletting for Loft Board tenants.

We don't have to pay rent, but that's asking for trouble.

Look into how discovery works. Would have have to show every single this we spent money on and received money for?

What would out number be as a group if we took the buyout? Can we all have a different number? Erez $750, Kate $750 (maybe a little lower), David $100 ?, Phil / Theo ?, Christain ?

Anyone else besides the Kolb's and Aaron (Margret told me Aaron will get covered)

What right do we have if city says building has to come down?

We need to start looking into other representation? Kozack?

Will getting PAAs give us leverage and increase value?

Does there need to be a certain number of units for units to remain under loft law protection?

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Sorry for the delay, it took us a moment to all get together as a group. We'd like to schedule a meeting with you were we can all be in attendance (but we'll have one of us speak for everyone for the most part).

Wondering what your availability was next week? A few options would be best so we can find a time that works for all of us.

Subject: Harassment case

I have not heard from some of you. I want to make sure you understand that if we proceed on the harassment case, it is unlikely you will ever be bought out because the landlord will not be able to deregulate your units. If we do not proceed on the harassment case, you will not get the PAA's that some of you need. So that you know, I am authorized to negotiate buyouts for Lockhart and Post/Hanover who are not yet covered. I cannot be required to get people I don't represent out of the building - I hear there is someone I don't represent with a high demand but the landlord is not asking me to work that out.

Those of you who have contacted me have raised questions that others may also have. For example, if you are vulnerable to a primary residence case, that of course affects a buyout.

At some point, the landlord will just pay his lawyers to evict you rather than pay you money. Price per sq. foot was raised by one of you - but that has no bearing on this type of buyout. It is not determined by sq. ft. The issue of a subpoena for Loft

Board records about the PAA's was raised. I can't ask for a subpoena until there is a trial date and the subpoena is returnable (must be complied with) on the trial date, so we can't at this time get that information.

This is very time sensitive. All I can do is give you the best of my advice. Some of you are vulnerable to a primary residence case. I know that if you ever leave the building, all of you want to be bought out, and not just move out. I'd suggest you talk with one another because a total package has to make sense. I am also completely willing to schedule a meeting by Zoom or some other platform, or at my office, if it would help.

Discussed subpoenaing Loft Board meeting where everyone agreed on the PAAs. Can only do that through some kind of case.

Is there another way Marty can demo the building that we don't know about? One where we wouldn't get as much for our rights?

Is the DOB fining Marty for putting the steel polls up on Green St?

Is Marty's daughter taking over APC?

Point - Marty can't get hit with harassment.

Point - Kate, Erez, Christain would be fine with keeping the PAAs as is just not preferable.

Find out about subletting for Loft Board tenants.

We don't have to pay rent, but that's asking for trouble.

Look into how discovery works. Would have have to show every single this we spent money on and received money for?

What would out number be as a group if we took the buyout? Can we all have a different number? Erez $750, Kate $750 (maybe a little lower), David $100 ?, Phil / Theo ?, Christain ?

Anyone else besides the Kolb's and Aaron (Margret told me Aaron will get covered)

What right do we have if city says building has to come down?

We need to start looking into other representation? Kozack?

Will getting PAAs give us leverage and increase value?

Does there need to be a certain number of units for units to remain under loft law protection?

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

It's my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

No word from Margaret yet, if I don't hear back today I'll reach back out.

I'll go through these notes and streamline into a script we can use when we meet with her, before that happens I'll share with everyone so we're all on the same page on all points, including what amount we would consider for a buyouts. We v informally talked about numbers, but now would be a good time to decide what that number is (ideally) and what we'd all be willing to accept in negotiation.

David will hang a little longer if we are doing a group buyout. If we are taking the long road he'll sel now.

Discussed subpoenaing Loft Board meeting where everyone agreed on the PAAs. Can only do that through some kind of case.

Is there another way Marty can demo the building that we don't know about? One where we wouldn't get as much for our rights?

Is the DOB fining Marty for putting the steel polls up on Green St?

Is Marty's daughter taking over APC?

Point - Marty can't get hit with harassment.

Point - Kate, Erez, Christain would be fine with keeping the PAAs as is just not preferable.

Find out about subletting for Loft Board tenants.

We don't have to pay rent, but that's asking for trouble.

Look into how discovery works. Would have have to show every single this we spent money on and received money for?

What would out number be as a group if we took the buyout? Can we all have a different number? Erez $750, Kate $750 (maybe a little lower), David $100 ?, Phil / Theo ?, Christain ?

Anyone else besides the Kolb's and Aaron (Margret told me Aaron will get covered)

What right do we have if city says building has to come down?

We need to start looking into other representation? Kozack?

Will getting PAAs give us leverage and increase value?

Does there need to be a certain number of units for units to remain under loft law protection?

I was pretty careful speaking with her to keep conversation about me and not others, certainly not with specifics. I recall saying "you'll need to speak to them" when she volunteered info or asked about anybody else.

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why I was a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Christian

Margaret just got back to me, she's available anytime during business hours on Wednesday.

Can we make that work? If anyone has any preference on time, please let me know, would like to get back to her today w a time that works for all of us.

No word from Margaret yet, if I don't hear back today I'll reach back out.

I'll go through these notes and streamline into a script we can use when we meet with her, before that happens I'll share with everyone so we're all on the same page on all points, including what amount we would consider for a buyouts. We v informally talked about numbers, but now would be a good time to decide what that number is (ideally) and what we'd all be willing to accept in negotiation.

Also- I would hope my number in a group buyout would be much higher than 100k, if there was a group buyout. Not sure where 100k came from.

David will hang a little longer if we are doing a group buyout. If we are taking the long road he'll sel now.

Discussed subpoenaing Loft Board meeting where everyone agreed on the PAAs. Can only do that through some kind of case.

Is there another way Marty can demo the building that we don't know about? One where we wouldn't get as much for our rights?

Is the DOB fining Marty for putting the steel polls up on Green St?

Is Marty's daughter taking over APC?

Point - Marty can't get hit with harassment.

Point - Kate, Erez, Christain would be fine with keeping the PAAs as is just not preferable.

Find out about subletting for Loft Board tenants.

We don't have to pay rent, but that's asking for trouble.

Look into how discovery works. Would have have to show every single this we spent money on and received money for?

What would out number be as a group if we took the buyout? Can we all have a different number? Erez $750, Kate $750 (maybe a little lower), David $100 ?, Phil / Theo ?, Christain ?

Anyone else besides the Kolb's and Aaron (Margret told me Aaron will get covered)

What right do we have if city says building has to come down?

We need to start looking into other representation? Kozack?

Will getting PAAs give us leverage and increase value?

Does there need to be a certain number of units for units to remain under loft law protection?

I was pretty careful speaking with her to keep conversation about me and not others, certainly not with specifics. I recall saying "you'll need to speak to them" when she volunteered info or asked about anybody else.

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anything next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everything could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person, but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

I was pretty careful speaking with her to keep conversation about me and not others, certainly not with specifics. I recall saying "you'll need to speak to them" when she volunteered info or asked about anybody else.

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

He's telling Margaret that he wasn't hired for that reason. That was the only reason that we had him there, for situations like that, and to get the agreements in a binding contract. We can ask him for our $ back. He'll probably just give it to us. Maybe.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

On Wed, Jul 13, 2022 at 9:39 PM Christian Gray <christiangray3@protonmail.com> wrote:

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA

because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

I was pretty careful speaking with her to keep conversation about me and not others, certainly not with specifics. I recall saying "you'll need to speak to them" when she volunteered info or asked about anybody else.

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

Also, if we get the NC record, it has Bob Petrucci asking for the PAA agreement in writing.

He's telling Margaret that he wasn't hired for that reason. That was the only reason that we had him there, for situations like that, and to get the agreements in a binding contract. We can ask him for our $ back. He'll probably just give it to us. Maybe.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anything next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everything could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

As I said before, I'd like to get the PAA signed off on and rebuild my place and move back in but if the buyout were high enough, I'd consider leaving.

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person, but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

David will hang a little longer if we are doing a group buyout. If we are taking the long road he'll sel now.

Discussed subpoenaing Loft Board meeting where everyone agreed on the PAAs. Can only do that through some kind of case.

Is there another way Marty can demo the building that we don't know about? One where we wouldn't get as much for our rights?

Is the DOB fining Marty for putting the steel polls up on Green St?

Is Marty's daughter taking over APC?

Point - Marty can't get hit with harassment.

Point - Kate, Erez, Christain would be fine with keeping the PAAs as is just not preferable.

Find out about subletting for Loft Board tenants.

We don't have to pay rent, but that's asking for trouble.

Look into how discovery works. Would have have to show every single this we spent money on and received money for?

What would out number be as a group if we took the buyout? Can we all have a different number? Erez $750, Kate $750 (maybe a little lower), David $100 ?, Phil / Theo ?, Christain ?

Anyone else besides the Kolb's and Aaron (Margret told me Aaron will get covered)

What right do we have if city says building has to come down?

We need to start looking into other representation? Kozack?

Will getting PAAs give us leverage and increase value?

Does there need to be a certain number of units for units to remain under loft law protection?

I was pretty careful speaking with her to keep conversation about me and not others, certainly not with specifics. I recall saying "you'll need to speak to them" when she volunteered info or asked about anybody else.

I don't disagree with you but in my case she has pointed out some problems that are valid and could end up screwing me if I continue with the same attitude I had a few months ago. I agree with her that I should negotiate a buyout if possible.

Also, if we get the NC record, it has Bob Petrucci asking for the PAA agreement in writing.

He's telling Margaret that he wasn't hired for that reason. That was the only reason that we had him there, for situations like that, and to get the agreements in a binding contract. We can ask him for our $ back. He'll probably just give it to us. Maybe.

We could also sue Bob for all the $ that we've spent trying to get the PAA enforced. Margaret already said that she wouldn't represent us in a suit against Bob because they are friends, but that we would have grounds to sue him.

Getting the record will also hold Michael Bobbick accountable as well.

Thanks for the information. Not that it matters at this point but I definitely didn't "come to her for a buyout." I received the same emails as the rest of you and when I asked her to clarify a few things she basically told me I had jeopardized

my loft and continues to tell me how vulnerable my situation is every time we speak. Im ok pursuing a buyout and moving on from the building but she really didn't advise me about any other way forward.

On Sun, Jul 17, 2022 at 11:45 PM Kathryn Downie <downiekathryn@hotmail.com> wrote:

Hey everyone,

I had a long talk with Margret, here is the gist and important points. We can talk about everything in more detail when we get together. I mostly passing on what she said as best I can.

It's in Margret's retainer that she gets 10% if she negotiates a buy out.

I really pressed her about why she is pushing us to sell.

She said she has done everything she can do to get the PAAs passed and she doesn't know what else to do. She said if Lisa was still alive it would have passed, if a couple other things had happened it would have passed.

She said she is worried that Marty's new layers are vicious and it makes her worried.

She said if the building gets demolished we only get what the city says which won't be much.

I asked about if Marty just sells, and the new owners have to buy us out? I'm not really sure how she answered that.

She went into a lengthy explanation about the joys of home ownership. That the the buy out should only be large enough to put a down payment on a house. I explained I wanted to stay in Greenpoint and I couldn't do that in GP.

I explained I was happy at my apartment so why would I sell to move somewhere smaller in a neighborhood I don't want to live when I can just stay here. She started pushing Hudson Valley and giving lots of examples of how her other clients use there buy out to buy property other places.

I told her I would be fine with the PAA as is. I would like to change it. Everyone agreed to have it my way at the NS at the Loft Board and then it just didn't end up in the plans. But I could take it as it is.

She said she mostly started pushing the buyouts because she doesn't know how else to get the PAAs through and David and Phil came to her asking her to negotiate a buyout so she thought it would be best for everyone especially because of Marty's new lawyers.

She asked why we didn't fill out the right paper work in the 45 days. I said Petrucci and Arthur were supposed to. She said P told her he wasn't hired to do that.

She talked at length about how much she likes Petrucci.

She said that just because something didn't go the way we want doesn't mean someone did something wrong.

She said Christain should only be asking for 1M. She said he would need all kind of proof about how he lost recordings and stuff like that for more.

She said Erez was in the best position - He is happy with his PAA, he has been there with no issue proving it and Marty wouldn't make him try.

We talke at length about my situation - that I thought it was crazy that I would loose everythign because during 2020 I might only be able to prove I spent 5 month there instead of 6. She said it would depend on the judge. She said it was fine if I was away for work if I could prove it. She said I might have to involve my work, that was fine I told he. She said I wouldn't just have to prove it. She said I would have to show every single bank statement, every debit card transaction. I'll admitt I don't like the sound of that. I don't want every single thing I have done, every single thing I bought, every single thing I have been paid for scrutinized by multiply people .

I said I didn't understand why Iwas a target. She said she has no reason but what other people have said about me. I said I will scream if I hear that again. She said she knows I've been away, so I have been away,

and if Marty's lawyers ask me for a discovery I would have to prove it by showing every single thing I bought with my debit card. I said if we don't have a reason to think that Marty will do that then we should just move forward like everything is fine since

it is. She said if I ask for a big buyout it could give him reason to target me. I'll admit she made me nervous. I can't handle a big court case I can't handle showing everything I've purchased to a judge. I'll have to look into that and see if she's right about that. She said it happened to another client, and the court saw everythign she bought and it was really embarrassing.

She said Christain should ask for 1M, Erez $750, and me David, and Phil should split 1M. Sorry gang but I'm not walking away with $330. It would have to be my only option. My apartment is huge. I'm on the corner.

Marty can't build anythign next to it either. I can sign off on the PAAs as is if need be. And I can live happily in my apartment in GP for many years. I can't handle a discovery from Marty - that's the only thing against me. I have to do some research.

She talked about other people in the building that aren't part of our FTA but I can't remember what she said.

She said yes we should ask higher but not too much higher or everthing could get screwed.

Anyway - let's talk soon.

Yes, let's get a debit card issued for the TA bank account and have it on file at Margaret's office. That's the arrangement I have with them for my personal account. They ask for permission to bill the card or I just give them permission when I get a bill and it's done.

We should definitely make a list of questions and have a meeting as a group before our meeting with Margaret. Margaret tends not to answer questions directly a lot of the time. We should be explicit that she need to answer the questions directly before

we move on the the next question and wrap the meeting only when all of our questions are answered. It will be good to do it as a group so there is accountability. Margaret flip flops a lot. She wrote in an email that the harassment case is weak and not to

ask her to represent us in it. She explicitly told me that I especially have a strong case that would most likely win in court, now she is changing her tune, because in my opinion, she wants to cash out on the buyouts.

I, to my knowledge, never agreed to, nor signed anything defining what Margaret's cut of the buyout would be. I never hired her to negotiate any buyouts, nor was this agreed to when we discussed her taking over Petrucci's position. We need to review the

to review the contract that we signed as a group.

Thanks.

Peace,

Christian

Thank you for spelling all this out, all good things to consider!

Sounds like we should schedule a group call with Margaret. In our last call we had talked about delegating one of us to do the talking while the rest of us listen in and chime in if there's something worth clarifying. Happy to be that person,

but if someone feels strongly about it, happy to let them take the lead.

I'm going to reach out to Margaret to get some times that work for her and then we can all pick one that works best for us.

Also, who is responsible for paying Margaret for our group cost (700$)? Do we need to put more money into that pot? Please let us know what you need from us to get our balance paid.

Is there a good time we could meet in the near future before talking to Margaret so we can collect our thoughts / streamline our questions for when we do all have a call with her?

I'm available pretty much anytime over the next few days. Would be great to have this initial meeting by end of this weekend so we can get on a call w her first thing next week.

Greetings TA,

The main obstacle in the way of Marty filing for a demo permit and demolishing the building is the fact that we have loft law and he needs to bring the whole building up to code and signed off on by DOB before he can file for a demo permit. It makes sense

that Marty would want to demo the building. There are major structural issues that need to be dealt with on top of bringing the rest of the building up to code. It would be cheaper and much quicker to buy us out, not renew the 1-year long leases that the rest of the tenants who aren't covered by loft law, and clear the building. He could develop it himself or sell to a developer for a much higher price, if the building was empty. The Colbs said they wouldn't leave for less than a $1M buyout.

The harassment suit is dire for Marty if he has any intention of developing the building himself, as he cannot buy us out. It would also take the value of the building down if he were to sell to a developer.

Its my opinion that Marty intends to demolish the building. The mysterious flyer claims that that's what his plan is too. We should use this to get very high buyouts. Has anyone reached out to the email address on the flyer?

I don't particularly want to move out. I would like to get the PAA signed off on. That was the whole point of the harassment suite to begin with. That being said, if the buyout was high I would seriously consider it.

Marty doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us out so he can move along with his plan. Nothing can stop him, to my knowledge, once all of the Loft-law covered tenants are out. This position and the fact that his potential plans get derailed

if he gets hit with a harassment conviction, puts us in a very strong position. Marty's is playing chicken with the harassment suite, but he also doesn't want to give us the PAA because he wants us leave. It's seems to me that this would be an ideal situation

to get a very high buyout. Otherwise he's stuck with us, potentially not paying rent, unable to buy us out, with severe consequences if he gets hit with another harassment suite and loses.

Did anyone talk with Margaret?

Did anyone give numbers?

Here's info from two real-estate professionals:

Our price per square foot can range from $1,300 to $1,600.

My unit is @ 1,700 sq.ft

@ $1,300 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.21M

@ $1,400 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.38M

@ $1,500 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.55M

@ $1,600 x 1,700 square.ft = $2.72M

That's market rate right now in our area.

Even if Marty bought us out for 1M a piece he'd be making out, especially considering that if the harassment suite goes through, which Margaret said that it will, especially with my case, his position is seriously compromised. Marty will spend exponentially

more just bringing the building up to code, not to mention the amount of time that the whole process would take...many years, it will take years to get the demo permit and evict us after getting the DOB to sign off on the legalization. As many have already said,

Marty has no intention once legalizing the building, but I think that he would like to demo it asap.

Also Margaret needs to subpoena the Narrative Conference record where everyone agreed to the PAA. We should figure out a time when we can all meet with her so we can all get on the same page.

Please update the group with where you're at with your number, what communication you've had with Margaret, and how you think we should move forward.

Thanks,

Christian

Discussed subpoenaing Loft Board meeting where everyone agreed on the PAAs. Can only do that through some kind of case.

Is there another way Marty can demo the building that we don't know about? One where we wouldn't get as much for our rights?

Is the DOB fining Marty for putting the steel polls up on Green St?

Is Marty's daughter taking over APC?

Point - Marty can't get hit with harassment.

Point - Kate, Erez, Christain would be fine with keeping the PAAs as is just not preferable.

Find out about subletting for Loft Board tenants.

We don't have to pay rent, but that's asking for trouble.

Look into how discovery works. Would have have to show every single this we spent money on and received money for?

What would out number be as a group if we took the buyout? Can we all have a different number? Erez $750, Kate $750 (maybe a little lower), David $100 ?, Phil / Theo ?, Christain ?

Anyone else besides the Kolb's and Aaron (Margret told me Aaron will get covered)

What right do we have if city says building has to come down?

We need to start looking into other representation? Kozack?

Will getting PAAs give us leverage and increase value?

Does there need to be a certain number of units for units to remain under loft law protection?
