Hey Russ,
I hope things are going well with you. I'm sure you must be busy. Let me know when you want to roll though and we'll make a plan.
Thanks.
Best,
Christian

Hey christian,

Sorry for the late reply, been really busy. Thanks for the update. No worries, I kind of figured you were busy. I just wanted to make sure we're still going to do this as planned. I can imagine what you're going through. I've seen a few big studios get built.

Yes I'd like to stop by soon. I'll text you next week.

Best
Russ

Hey Russ,

My apologies for not getting back to you on your last email. Unfortunately finding a CNC service has been slow and the bids are astronomical. We are doing one the projects ourselves, by hand, in the space. We start that next week. I'm hiring a shop to do the second project and we are still figuring out how we are going to fabricate the third. I'm hoping, conservatively, that we can start commissioning the API in four to six weeks from now and opening doors in three months from now. I'll keep you in the loop regarding progress and will let you know when I'm sending over the revised rack and tie-in layouts. You're welcome to stop by anytime and check out the spot and talk. I'm very sorry that this has been taking so long...it has been very expensive and frustrating on my side of things. We are getting close though.

I hope your projects are going well. I love the D'Angelo record! Well done! I look forward to working together in the future.

Best,
Christian

Hey christian,

How are you man? How's the studio coming along? I never heard back from you on my last email, hope you're ok.

I'm not trying to rush you but I need to figure out my next moves. I'm really hoping this will work out for us. Could you please give me an update and a realistic time frame on when the studio will be ready for sessions? And when will you be commissioning the API? I'd rather start booking sessions there than booking other studios.

Eric,
I could come by this week. Are you gonna be around?

Hope you're both well.

Best
Russ
